Two Winners of Air Derby Share $25,000 of Prize

As Plane of C. Jones and K. Waller, Britishers, Arrives in Melbourne, Fourth in Race From England, It Is Announced C. W. A. Scott and T. C. Black, Winners, Are Given Half of $50,000 Prize By Backer, A. O. Edwards of London

Big Sum Offered For Dutch Fliers' Plane

Canadian Press and Associated Press Melbourne, Australia, Oct. 25.—The airplane which the British fliers, C. W. A. Scott and T. Campbell Black, crashed ashore of Australia, was given to the day by the backer of their flight and owner of the plane, A. O. Edwards of London.

Scott and Black received half of the first prize of $50,000. The machine (De Havilland Comet) will be shipped to London in November. A leading Australian air line offered $20,000 (about $100,000) for the "floating hotel" in which the Dutch pilots, J. D. Parmentier and J. J. Mol, won second place. It is a Douglas monoplane, built in the United States.

Melbourne, Oct. 25.—Great Britain took fourth as well as first honors in the England-to-Melbourne speed race today when Capt. Jones and K. Waller landed at 2:54 p.m. (8:54 yesterday evening Victoria time) on sun-flooded Laverton field.

The plane is a duplicate of the one in which C. W. A. Scott and T. Campbell Black won first place, a De Havilland Comet.

The appearance of Jones and Waller relieved anxiety occasioned by a lack of news from them after they had passed over Cobar this morning. A message had been broadcast asking for reports on them.

A heavy rain, bringing low visibility, ended shortly before the fliers' arrival. Although they took fourth place in the starting field of nineteen, Jones and Waller will not win a prize unless the Dutch pilots, K. D. Parmentier and J. J. Mol, who finished in second place, win a handicap prize and choose it in preference to the second speed award.

NINE PLANES STILL FLY
Nine planes, including that of John H. Wright and John Polando of the United States, stuck to the long derby route to-day in the wake of the four finishers.

Wright and Polando, who were arrested by Persian guards when they landed near the Turco-Persian border, took off to-day from Shaiba, near Basra, Iraq, for Karachi, India. They lost twenty-four hours and all hope of winning handicap money, through the Persian incident.

In fifth position was Squadron Leader Malcolm Macgregor of New Zealand, veteran pilot who took off this morning from Rangoon, Lomboek, for Port Darwin, Australia. J. E. Hewitt and C. E. Kay, stuck to the long derby route to-day as well as New Zealand, left Singapore.

A close race was between Squadron Leader D. E. Stodart of England and Lieutenant M. Hargrave of Denmark. Both planes left Rangoon, Burma, the British about two hours ahead.

C. J. Melrose of Australia arrived at Calcutta this morning earlier than he was expected. He found the air-drome deserted, but officials rushed in to check his time and he restarted within an hour.

NEW SCHEME FOR PRAIRIE AREAS

Premier of Manitoba Makes Broad Suggestions For Rehabilitation; Dominion Aid Called For

Winnipeg, Oct. 25.—A four-fold programme designed to bring about rehabilitation of the prairie drought area, with a central co-ordination body set up by the Dominion government, was advocated by Premier John Bracken of Manitoba in an address to the Canadian Club here to-day.

It embraces reclamation of the drought area, rehabilitation of the farms, a plan of conservation over the entire west and sound development of all lands resources.

"The problem has now assumed proportions of national scope," Mr. Bracken declared. "It is surely evident it can only be adequately met by the generous co-operation not only of individuals and local communities and provinces, but of the Dominion as well."

"What is needed is:
1. The offer by provinces of service of such technical men and departments, without charge, as can be utilized in prosecution of such a major project.
2. Appointment by the Dominion of a co-ordinating body to correlate efforts being made in a variety of directions by many individuals, both in and out of public service, and by (Turn to Page 2, Col. 2)

Plane Racers Held as Prisoners in Persia for Day

Associated Press Baghdad, Iraq, Oct. 25.—John H. Wright and John Polando took off from Shaiba, Iraq, early today for Karachi, India, after giving details of their unhappy experience as prisoners of Persian authorities for more than twenty-four hours.

The United States fliers in the England-to-Melbourne derby were forced down Tuesday near the Persian border.

Just before taking off this morning, Wright, in a telephonic conversation with the Associated Press in Baghdad, said: "What causes me anxiety is that we again have to fly over Persia. Heaven knows what will happen if we are forced to land again."

"We had a devilish experience the day before yesterday," he said. "We were compelled to land because of trouble with our fuel supply, but came down safely. The Persians were greatly excited. Some helpful Britons hid me away, but the Persians got hold of my colleague, Johnnie (Polando), who was immediately placed under police guard."

JOINED COMPANION
"He had a stiff time. They would not even give him a drink of water. Later I joined him, so we suffered together. We did our best to point out that there was no possible reason for our arrest, since our passports had been vased by the Persian legation at London, but they would not listen to us."

"We spent a most unpleasant night. Yesterday the Persians thought better of their extraordinary behavior and released us. I believe our British friends who made representations to them were chiefly responsible for our release. We flew back to Basra (Iraq), where we had the best position."

"The cause of the trouble which compelled us to make a forced landing was not definitely traced, but there has been no good place in the handicap race."

OIL MONOPOLY IS PROTESTED
Britain and U.S. Tell Japan They Oppose Move in Manchukuo

Associated Press London, Oct. 25.—Great Britain protested to-day against the Manchukuo oil monopoly through her consul at Hankin, capital of Manchukuo, and her embassy in Tokio.

Washington, Oct. 25.—The United States has made representations to Japan against the proposed Manchukuo state oil monopoly on the grounds that the monopoly would be detrimental to American oil companies and in violation of the "open door" policy and the Nine-power Treaty.

Great Britain and the Netherlands, whose nationals are likewise affected, were understood to have made similar separate representations, but there has been no joint action by the three nations.

By GEORGE HAMILTON, Canadian Press Staff Writer
London, Oct. 25.—Japan is making new moves toward mastery of the Far East.

On the heels of the Japanese request for quality in naval defence with Britain and the United States, the Japanese puppet state of Manchukuo has declared a petroleum monopoly. This is asserted to be in direct violation of treaty obligations to maintain the "open door" in Manchukuo.

Behind the scenes powerful Japanese interests are working for a new alliance or entente with Britain. The British, while sharply discounting alarmist rumors which are continuous, are obviously concerned. (Turn to Page 2, Col. 2)

NEW BISHOP CONSECRATED

Rev. J. H. MacDonald Becomes Bishop of Victoria; Service in Antigonish, N.S.

Antigonish, N.S., Oct. 25.—A new bishop of the Roman Catholic Church was consecrated in this cathedral town to-day. Just nine miles from the town of his birth, Rev. Father John Hugh MacDonald, D.D., was elevated to the office of Bishop of Victoria, British Columbia.

More than 200 of Canada's clergy—archbishops, bishops and priests—thronged St. Ninian's Cathedral with hundreds of laymen as Father MacDonald, for ten years pastor of the Sacred Heart Church at Sydney, N.S., was raised to the bishopric by Most Rev. Andrew Cassidy, Apostolic Delegate to Canada and Newfoundland.

The culmination of almost twenty-eight years in the priesthood took place within sight of the new village of Mayvale, where he was born fifty-three years ago. It was the same spot where Father MacDonald had been ordained a priest in 1906. (Turn to Page 18, Col. 2)

BEATTY DECLARES UNIFICATION ONLY RAILWAY SOLUTION

C.P.R. Head Says Chairman Fullerton of C.N.R. Board, in Opposing His Proposals, Underestimates Possible Savings

Montréal, Oct. 25.—An emphatic declaration that only by unification of Canada's two railway systems could the greatest economies be effected was made here to-day by E. W. Beatty, K.C., president of the Canadian Pacific Railway, replying to speeches made recently in the Maritime Provinces by Hon. C. F. Fullerton, chairman of the board of trustees of the Canadian National Railway.

Mr. Beatty stated accumulated Canadian National Railway deficits since 1923 totaled $644,000,000, then drew some comparisons.

The deficits were equal to 21.3 cents per bushel of wheat, including Canada's two railway systems flour, exported during the same period; they exceeded the total gold production of Canada by $175,000,000 during the same period; the production of Canadian fisheries by $164,000,000, and were equal to a direct tax of $3.46 on every pair of shoes manufactured in Canada; were equal to 88.5 per cent of the income taxes collected from persons and corporations during the period, or to 93.6 per cent of the sales tax, which, Mr. Beatty pointed out, enters into the price of practically every commodity purchased in Canada.

DESCRIPTED AS UNFORTUNATE
In his prepared statement, Mr. Beatty declared: "It is unfortunate that Mr. Fullerton, in stating his opinions, should endeavor to minimize the disastrous effects of those recurring deficits and that he should proceed on the assumption the country will be satisfied with the threadbare assurance that time and tide wait for no man."

Vancouver Police Hunting Moron
Vancouver, Oct. 25.—Police to-day intensified their search for a moron who has attempted to attack young girls in the Grandview district three times within the last week.

Kathleen Bradley, thirteen, was proceeding home yesterday evening after visiting friends when a man accosted her and attempted to seize her. The opportune appearance of an automobile caused him to abandon the attack and the girl reached home safely.

Price Stabilization Urged By Roosevelt

President's Speech to U.S. Bankers Taken to Indicate Government Hopes For Early International Harmony

Washington, Oct. 25.—Out of President Roosevelt's address to the American Bankers' Association there arose to-day clear indications the United States Government hopes for international harmony on a policy of arriving at price stabilization "as quickly as possible."

In a speech in which he challenged the banking fraternity yesterday evening to speed the flow of credit, the President included this paragraph: "With respect to international relationships, I have been glad to note the growing appreciation in other nations of the desirability of arriving, as quickly as possible, at a point of steadiness of prices and values. This objective of a greater steadiness we have constantly kept before us as our national policy."

Special significance was attached to this because sources close to the administration expressed the belief it was one of the three salient points in the speech. They did not elaborate on it, however.

The remarks on price stabilization are not a pledge for currency stabilization (Turn to Page 2, Col. 3)

Mayors and Reeves Wind-up Two-day Siege on Cabinet Without Success; Are Told Government Sees No Reason to Change Stand on Distribution of Costs

Take Exception To Words of Premier

Pattullo Offers Interview Next Week If Full Case Submitted in Writing and Meeting Deemed Necessary

The battle of James Bay, in which the executive of the Union of B.C. Municipalities tried unsuccessfully to discuss the cut in relief grants with the provincial government, ended suddenly at noon to-day.

After two days of sessions at the Empress Hotel, during which messages passed between themselves and Premier Pattullo, the delegates adjourned and are going home. They were told that the government could see no reason to change the system of dividing relief costs as announced last week and are dissatisfied with this information because it does not help to solve their problems.

The union will ask all municipal councils to protest the Premier's action to their private members of the Legislature, and will issue a statement explaining the whole situation to the public.

NO "GATE-CRASHERS"
The executive formally announced it had never "demanded" an interview with the cabinet, but had "respectfully requested" the meeting. Furthermore, it had never tried to "crash the gates" or engage in any "rough stuff."

The end came this morning as the union abandoned its tactics of yesterday in trying to interview the cabinet and sent a direct request to the Premier for a meeting. The request was as follows:

"The executive of the U.B.C.M. has given serious consideration to the notification received by all municipalities with regard to the proposed change in the distribution of costs of unemployment relief. At a meeting held in Victoria this morning I was instructed to respectfully request that your government consent to continue the former arrangements until after the pending conference at Ottawa with the Dominion Government. The executive would further respectfully request that if you should thereafter consider any change in the distribution of relief costs a conference be held with this executive before they are put into effect."

PESSIMISTIC FIVE ANSWERS
To this Mr. Pattullo replied: "I see no reason to change the situation as already outlined. No hardship is being worked upon the municipalities as the province will advance the small share which the municipalities are asked to carry until the whole question again comes up for review with the Dominion authority."

"I have received no advice as to the date when the Ottawa conference may be held. Notice was received that it was proposed to hold a conference but no specific date was set, nor was the question of unemployment on the agenda. There shall also be placed on the agenda consideration of the respective responsibilities of the Dominion and provincial authorities on the question of unemployment."

"I would like to convey to your executive the fact that this government is deeply appreciative of the position in which the municipalities find themselves, and that we are, with the municipalities, working to a common purpose, namely good government and the welfare of our people. The problem confronting us, however, is going to take a little time to work out and in the interval we will all have to do the best we can."

After the delegates discussed this letter they sent a final reply to the Premier, expressing dissatisfaction with the answer because it did not provide a solution for their problem and announced their intention of making a public explanation of the whole situation through the press.

"Having received a final answer from the Hon. the Premier, T. D. (Turn to Page 2, Col. 1)

Relief Cost Basis Will Not Be Changed

Patullo, and finding itself shut off from an interview with his cabinet, or consideration of the attitude of the union to the proposed change in the distribution of unemployment relief costs, is now compelled to place before the public for the purpose of education its reasons for desiring the interview," the executive announced. "We must defend the municipal finances on which depend the security of the home owner. With this end in view we intend to place our statement before the people of B.C. as we feel that public opinion will justify our stand."

The government meanwhile did not make any public comment. Premier Pattullo remained firm in his stand, expressed in his previous wires and letters to the union, that the relief costs distribution announced last week was a closed incident and required no further discussion. If the union had any special or urgent matter to discuss it could be submitted in writing and an interview if necessary, could be arranged.

TRIED THREE TIMES

This was in face of three attempts made by the union yesterday to have the interview immediately, one in the morning, one in the afternoon and one in the evening. The reply was similar on each occasion.

The Premier in the afternoon said if the union put its whole case in writing and an interview was deemed necessary, it could be arranged, but not before next week. In response to this the executive drafted a lengthy reply, as follows:

UNLOADING COSTS

"We, the executive of the Union of British Columbia Municipalities, regret that you were unable to arrange a meeting of the provincial cabinet to-day to discuss with us a matter of such urgency and public importance as the proposed change in the basis of unemployment relief."

"In response to your verbal request that we set forth our case in writing, we respectfully drew your attention to our letter of the October 22, in which we embodied a resolution expressing our views. We wish to reiterate those views. We submit that a reduction in relief grants from the Dominion and provincial governments would shift the burden of financing unemployment relief to owners of real property, especially the home owners. If as an alternative relief payments to the unemployed are reduced, thousands of citizens who are already suffering severely, would be made to suffer still more. "The municipalities are unable to assume any further financial responsibility for unemployment relief either by increasing taxation or by borrowing, which is merely taxation in disguise. We consider the present proposals as a continuation of the process of unloading onto the municipalities what is essentially a national problem."

"We feel that the situation cannot be dealt with adequately by formal correspondence, and we respectfully request that a meeting be arranged as speedily as possible between the cabinet and the union executive, who represent public bodies comprising 80 per cent of the people of this province, for the mutual consideration of the subject matter outlined herein."

"As several of our members have come to Victoria from distant points, we suggest with all deference, that if at all possible the desired meeting take place to-morrow rather than next week."

The reply from the Premier was still in the negative.

Strong action was contemplated by the executive when the replies were given. An appeal to Premier Bennett, or direct to Premier Bennett, was considered as one stage. Another suggestion was that the Minister of Municipal Affairs be asked to mediate if the interview was not granted.

PROTEST PREMIER'S ACTION

Argument raged at great length as to the course which would be pursued. Finally more moderate counsel prevailed and it was decided to organize a protest by individual municipalities. This was set out in the following resolution:

"That a report of these proceedings be forwarded to all municipalities; "And that we suggest that all municipalities pass a resolution of protest against the action of the Premier in refusing to see representatives of municipalities representing 80 per cent of the population of the province, to discuss a matter of vital importance to the people of the province, and that they also protest to their local members."

The list was described at one period by Mayor Manning as a "battle to save our budgets," and he warned against letting any personal element enter into it.

At 11 o'clock yesterday evening the union discussed the situation, studying various plans of action, but when dawn came to-day and another session loomed the delegates were satisfied they would not get an interview with the cabinet and introduced the new tactics of asking for restoration of the cut.

DID NOT "DEMAND"

One of the things that had delegates incensed at the meeting was the suggestion that they had "demanded" an interview. With this in mind they had the executive issue the following statement:

"Regarding notices in the public press, the executive of the Union of B.C. Municipalities wish to place themselves upon record as having been not at any time 'demanded' an interview with the cabinet, but have always 'respectfully requested'."

"Further they have never tried to 'grab' the gates like a mob from the streets nor have they ever engaged in any 'rough stuff' as reported to have been stated by the Premier, but have always endeavored to act with the dignity becoming to responsible citizens. In fact the executive have not even called at the Parliament buildings, but have sent its communications through its secretary, or through the Minister of Municipalities who endeavored to arrange a conference between the executive and the cabinet, but was unsuccessful."

Economy In Buying Best Quality Tea Stressed By Visitor

Tea drinkers the world over are rapidly becoming conscious of the fact that it is economy to stress quality in purchasing tea according to Gordon McGregor, western manager of the Salada Sales Company Ltd., who is in Victoria on company business from his headquarters in Winnipeg.

"This is reflected," he says, "in the greatly increased business dealers are enjoying on Salada, the present year having shown the greatest sales volume of any corresponding period for many years. This quality product has been on the western market."

Mr. McGregor also points out that it is rapidly becoming recognized as an inexpensive beverage, when it is known that 300 delicious cups can be obtained from a pound package of good tea such as Salada.

"To obtain the fullest enjoyment from a cup of good tea, it is important that the proper method of preparation be employed," he said. "This is best accomplished by using fresh water and an earthenware teapot, which should be scalded out to make it warm. Place in it a level teaspoon of tea for every cup desired and water for the pot. Add fresh boiling water, allowing it to steep about five minutes, and stir slightly before serving."

Japan Is Asked To Explain Naval Plan

New Scheme For Dry Prairie Areas

many departments both of governments and universities. "The British and United States naval delegates have decided the Japanese proposal for equality in naval defence was unacceptable in its present form at least."

Representatives of Britain and the United States were said to have agreed to ask for a full outline of the complete technical plan which Japan wants to use as a basis for a new naval treaty.

The two delegations, which separately met the Japanese in the last two days, did not reject outright the Japanese plea for equality "in principle," but it was said they were agreed the plan was still too vague for acceptance, pending full information from the Japanese.

IN BROAD OUTLINE

So far the Japanese have presented only the broad outline of the plan, understood to call for limitation of naval armaments by maximum tonnage instead of category ratios, abolishing the existing ratio system, which rates Japan inferior to Britain and the United States, reducing capital ships and aircraft carriers and classing other vessels as defensive.

The Japanese are to meet the British again to-morrow, and it was understood that before that time the request for more specific proposals would be conveyed privately to the Japanese delegation.

The three delegations, which are holding preliminary talks, are to meet in a formal conference scheduled for next year, but in conference separately to-day. The United States delegates were still trying to turn the three-power conversations into a preliminary round-table conference, but the Japanese continued to insist the talks be carried on laterally. The British delegates remained neutral on the question of procedure.

NO THREAT SEEN

Refusal to accept the Japanese proposals in their present form did not be regarded as a threat to the conversations, an authority pointed out.

Another observation of the chairman is illuminating. He states that he does not believe there would be an absence of political influence if the Japanese proposal were adopted in the next breath, that there is no political influence now. I do not know how he can reconcile two such contradictory statements, practically the same sentence. How many times was it stated during the years prior to 1932 that there was no political influence being exerted, yet when the late Premier gave evidence before the royal commission he frankly admitted the Canadian National Railways were not divorced from politics.

"It is a pity Mr. Fullerton has apparently arrived at the conclusion that it is politically inexpedient to save millions of the taxpayers of Canada, and at the same time protect the honest investors in Canadian Pacific securities and stocks," Mr. Beatty said. "I have been accused of endeavoring to protect the interests of these latter investors, which is entirely correct. I have also been accused of desiring to do this at the expense of the taxpayers of Canada. The Canadian National—the taxpayers—is decidedly untrue. The economies possible through unification and non-political management of Canada's railway systems are equally desirable to the Canadian Pacific and to the taxpayers of Canada. Their interests are identical. Mr. Fullerton is in a splendid position to help in the solution. I still hope he will disregard political considerations, and that he will approach the issue with nothing in mind save the country's need."

In some mysterious way will convert a crushing liability into an asset. Mr. Beatty said his statement that $75,000,000 would be the average saving per year under unification, and supported those figures with Mr. Fullerton's estimate of $15,000,000.

COMPILATION OF FIGURES

His figures, the C.P.R. president stated, had been prepared by a committee of officers, were later verified by independent experts, and were thoroughly reviewed by himself. The year 1930 had been taken as a basis because that was the latest year for which the Canadian Pacific had been available at the time when the royal commission asked for the submission.

It was an admirable year because it struck an average between the years of expansion and the years of depression he said. Railway earnings in 1930 were the lowest of any year between 1923 and 1930 and were $45,000,000 below the yearly average for that period.

It was in 1930 that the volume of traffic would exceed 1930, saving would be greater than $75,000,000, and vice versa, but over a period of years it is confidently expected that the economies would average $75,000,000 per year," the statement continued.

OIL MONOPOLY IS PROTESTED

CONFERENCE IN LONDON
Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald, Sir John Simon, foreign secretary, and Norman Davis, United States ambassador, were in conference to-day at No. 10 Downing Street.

The proposed state monopoly of Manchukuo oil announced from Mukden is stated here to be in violation of the Nine-power Treaty signed at Washington in 1922, but contrary alike to the terms of the declaration of independence made when the state of Manchukuo was established, in a statement made in the Diet at Tokyo.

CONCERN EXPRESSED

The reports of the attempt to establish a new enterprise with British concern here because they represent intimate British financial interests. Britain would pledge Japan not to join with anyone else in opposition to Japanese aggression.

No suggestion of either an alliance or an entente—a written agreement or a friendly understanding—has been received officially from Japan. Delegations from the Federal and British Industries now in Japan are speaking entirely for themselves, it is stressed.

The judge asked Maynard whether he had anything to say before sentence was passed upon him. "I certainly want to see my creditors paid in full. I will endeavor to do it even if I go without myself."

The statement was greeted with a burst of comment from the crowd of spectators who filled the standing area of the court, and forced court officials to call for order.

THROUGH CO-OPERATION

"In reply to those who advocate unification, he (Mr. Fullerton) does suggest that all the economies possible under the plan proposed could be accomplished through co-operation," said Mr. Beatty. "Such a statement is palpably absurd, unless it is assumed that the Canadian Pacific will be permitted under either system."

"In order to achieve economies through co-operation officers of two competing properties must not only reach agreement about each and every thing that is done directly, which, because of competitive conditions is difficult enough, but must also endeavor to deal fairly with the indirect effect of the exclusive interest of the companies. These exclusive interests are diverse and of such importance that there is often a possibility of one company or the other losing more from the indirect effect in these exclusive interests than its proportion of the direct savings from co-operative action.

"I have always anticipated that if the principle of unification becomes acceptable to Canadians as a whole they will get behind all legitimate efforts to effect the economies so badly needed, and if this theory is not entirely unsound there can be no doubt the maintenance of two independent systems cannot, with the greatest possible co-operative action, approach the economies possible through the unification of management of the two systems."

"To accomplish the savings from unification which I have suggested would not involve the ruthless action which Mr. Fullerton states would be necessary. As I have said on more than one occasion, the necessary changes would be made gradually, wisely and considerately."

"It would be found that the normal number of jobs would be maintained, and that under the unified system employees would find that regularity of employment which under present conditions is denied to them. A careful survey of the situation has convinced me there is nothing to fear on the part of the employees on the grounds of loss of employment due to unification."

"It is difficult to follow the reasoning of Mr. Fullerton, who but a few weeks ago, when Canadian National estimates were considered, stated that quite apart from co-operation studies in respect to the abandonment of duplicate lines, the railway was considering the possible abandonment of over 1,000 miles of their own light traffic mileage with its present output against abandonment of the same mileage advanced to the royal commission did not contemplate depriving communities of reasonable transportation facilities."

"Mr. Fullerton is quoted as having said that 'from 1928 on the system paid its operating expenses and the interest on its bonds. This is inaccurate, because in 1929 the deficit after paying interest due the public was $13,400,000 and similar figures followed in the years 1930, $35,500,000 deficit; 1931, $60,900,000 deficit; 1932, $61,000,000 deficit; 1933, $60,100,000 deficit.

"To account the interest due the government, the deficits were still greater, amounting to: 1929, $46,100,000 deficit; 1930, $68,200,000 deficit; 1931, $93,500,000 deficit; 1932, $93,500,000 deficit; 1933, $93,500,000 deficit.

"During this same period, notwithstanding the fact that the railway was earning to which both companies were subjected, the Canadian Pacific has never failed to meet its fixed charges."

"Another observation of the chairman is illuminating. He states that he does not believe there would be an absence of political influence if the Japanese proposal were adopted in the next breath, that there is no political influence now. I do not know how he can reconcile two such contradictory statements, practically the same sentence. How many times was it stated during the years prior to 1932 that there was no political influence being exerted, yet when the late Premier gave evidence before the royal commission he frankly admitted the Canadian National Railways were not divorced from politics."

Beatty Declares Unification Only Railway Solution

In some mysterious way will convert a crushing liability into an asset. Mr. Beatty said his statement that $75,000,000 would be the average saving per year under unification, and supported those figures with Mr. Fullerton's estimate of $15,000,000.

COMPILATION OF FIGURES

His figures, the C.P.R. president stated, had been prepared by a committee of officers, were later verified by independent experts, and were thoroughly reviewed by himself. The year 1930 had been taken as a basis because that was the latest year for which the Canadian Pacific had been available at the time when the royal commission asked for the submission.

It was an admirable year because it struck an average between the years of expansion and the years of depression he said. Railway earnings in 1930 were the lowest of any year between 1923 and 1930 and were $45,000,000 below the yearly average for that period.

It was in 1930 that the volume of traffic would exceed 1930, saving would be greater than $75,000,000, and vice versa, but over a period of years it is confidently expected that the economies would average $75,000,000 per year," the statement continued.

QUEBEC MAN SHOT TO DEATH

Postmaster J. Morin and Motel Jolicoeur, small clerk, wounded in the fusillade of shots, were taken to a hospital. Mr. Morin's condition was reported to be critical following an emergency operation. Jolicoeur was not seriously hurt. Police said their assailant was J. B. Blodgett, a former convict, who was arrested in the post office. He was smothered and lodged in the police station.

"100% B.C. Owned and Controlled" Plant at Abbotsford

Years ago, Vicks VapoRub introduced the modern method of treating colds. Now, Vicks VapoRub has developed the ideal companion to VapoRub—Vicks Va-tro-nol—the new aid in preventing colds.

These two preparations, together with a few simple rules of health, form the unique Vicks Plan for Better Control of Colds. Their help in Vicks Plan in reducing the number, duration and dangers of colds has been clinically tested by practicing physicians. The plan is fully explained in each Vicks Plan works.

Here, briefly, is how Vicks Plan works:

To Help Prevent Colds—Watch yourself and children after exposure to any condition apt to be followed by a cold—such as: Contact with others having active colds—crowds, public places, stuffy ill-ventilated rooms—sudden changes in temperature, wet or cold, or unaccustomed exposures—excesses in living which lower resistance, such as overeating, smoking, or drinking—after a hard day when you are overtired.

Then, if you have that stuffy, sneezy, irritation in the nasal passages where most colds start, use Vicks Va-tro-nol at once—just a few drops up each nostril. Used in time, Va-tro-nol helps to prevent many annoying colds, and to throw off colds in their early stages.

To Help Shorten a Cold—If a cold has developed, or strikes without warning, apply Vicks VapoRub over throat and chest at bedtime. Through the skin, VapoRub acts direct like a poultice. At the same time, its medicated vapors are inhaled with every breath direct to the inflamed air-passages. This combined "double action" through the night loosens phlegm—soothes irritated membranes—eases difficult breathing—helps break congestion.

During the day—any time, any place—use Vicks Va-tro-nol every 2-3 hours as needed. This gives you full 24-hour treatment without the risks of constant internal dosing—especially of children.

Trial Packages Free—Your druggist has free combination packages containing trial sizes of Va-tro-nol and VapoRub—also folder telling how these twin aids to fever and shorter colds are used in Vicks Plan for Better Control of Colds. Ask for yours to-day, as your druggist's supply is limited. Adv.

ONTARIO WANTS MINES REVENUE

Tax Proposal May Be Issue in Coming Federal Election

Canadian Press—Toronto, Oct. 25.—The Globe today said that according to sources close to the Ontario cabinet, the province would make a vigorous effort to gain the right to tax its own gold mines. Last spring the Dominion government imposed a tax on mine profits.

During an address at St. Thomas this week, Premier Mitchell F. Hepburn said the Dominion government was receiving the taxes on the mineral wealth of northern Ontario. "But we hope to get that back," he said. "It is understood that Mr. Hepburn will take up the matter with Rt. Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, Dominion leader, and that the matter will figure as an issue in the federal election," The Globe said.

To Help Shorten a Cold—If a cold has developed, or strikes without warning, apply Vicks VapoRub over throat and chest at bedtime. Through the skin, VapoRub acts direct like a poultice. At the same time, its medicated vapors are inhaled with every breath direct to the inflamed air-passages. This combined "double action" through the night loosens phlegm—soothes irritated membranes—eases difficult breathing—helps break congestion.

During the day—any time, any place—use Vicks Va-tro-nol every 2-3 hours as needed. This gives you full 24-hour treatment without the risks of constant internal dosing—especially of children.

Watch yourself and children after exposure to any condition apt to be followed by a cold—such as: Contact with others having active colds—crowds, public places, stuffy ill-ventilated rooms—sudden changes in temperature, wet or cold, or unaccustomed exposures—excesses in living which lower resistance, such as overeating, smoking, or drinking—after a hard day when you are overtired.

Then, if you have that stuffy, sneezy, irritation in the nasal passages where most colds start, use Vicks Va-tro-nol at once—just a few drops up each nostril. Used in time, Va-tro-nol helps to prevent many annoying colds, and to throw off colds in their early stages.

Card in Post for Twenty-seven Years

Canadian Press—Joliet, Ill., Oct. 25.—It took twenty-seven years to deliver a postcard from a town fifty-two miles away.

The card was correctly addressed to "Master Tom Driscoll," for the addressee was but a boy when the author dropped the card in the box.

FILIPINO SLAIN IN CALIFORNIA

Sacramento, Calif., Oct. 25.—One Filipino was shot to death and another wounded here yesterday evening, near the downtown business district in what police described as another outbreak of gang warfare between racial factions.

Four Filipinos sighted Frank Canegero, twenty-one, on a downtown street, and opened fire without warning. Canegero, mortally wounded, died soon afterward in a hospital. He told police he did not know his assailants. Although shot down in the first burst of firing, Canegero shot twice at his killers.

M. Macario, who insisted he was a bystander, also was shot. Police said he would recover. The slayers escaped in a sedan, while hundreds of spectators rushed to the aid of the two wounded men.

Sav Austrians 'Soon Will Fight'

National Police Newspaper Predicts Uprising Before End of Year

Vienna, Oct. 25.—Austrians were startled by an editorial in "Die Bundespost" (Federal Post) yesterday predicting the next revolution in Austria would be much more terrible than the last.

"It will be an insidious, beastly sight," the editorial said. "It will develop into a dastardly mass killing of our forces if no proper precautions are taken in time. All those dependent on us will die."

The newspaper, organ of the national police, further prophesied that a final society battle for power in Austria would come before the end of the year. It appealed to the government to increase the police force in view of the imminent danger.

"THE COMING AMERICAN BOOM"

ONE OF THE MOST WIDELY-DIScussed economic treatises of recent months is
"The Coming American Boom," by Major L. B. B.
Angas, a London stockbroker and a graduate of Oxford University. It is so widely discussed because its author, in several other prophetic works within the last ten years, has been most uncannily accurate in his pictures of the future.

One of the chapters in Major Angas's latest publication summarizes President Roosevelt's recovery policy—a policy as it concerns monetary matters and public works which he considers highly constructive. He points out that the Washington government's borrowing plans give rise to bank credit currency expansion and therefore set in motion the irresistible economic force of the so-called Redundant Money Balance, so that people who have more and more money pumped into their passbooks gradually begin to feel richer, become more confident, spend money more freely and thus revive trade. In other words, it is the John Maynard Keynes's idea of "spend your way out of the depression." The various phases of this monetary action are set down by Major Angas as follows:

1. Roosevelt has devalued the dollar and thus widened the gold basis for bank credit.
2. This enables the banks to increase their investments and also their loans to industry.
3. Since, however, lack of confidence may delay investment by the banks and also borrowing by industry, Mr. Roosevelt is hastening the whole process on by arranging that the government shall borrow from the banks—either on short-term or by getting them to subscribe to long-term loans—for the purpose of public works, etc.
4. The expenditure among contractors, etc., of this borrowed bank money is itself a direct improvement to certain industries. But of even greater importance is the indirect effect, namely, that such borrowing increases the bank money in the passbooks of the public and creates the important condition of monetary redundancy.
5. To start with, the public, although they hold extra money, may not increase the speed of their expenditure. But if the procedure is progressively continued, the policy will at last reach flash-point and begin to take effect; especially as the cheapening of money, which results from the banks having surplus reserves and consequently buying more investments, gradually makes all securities rise and makes people in general feel richer on paper—and, therefore, more willing to spend their surplus bank balances.

Major Angas wrote this treatise last July and he speaks of the temporary lull in the trade of the United States at that time, contrasting it with the sharp increase which began soon after President Roosevelt's inauguration in March last year, but he was not in the least perturbed, for he says it is economically certain that the continuance of government borrowing and expenditure will, by further increasing the balances of the public with the banks, lead to an increase in the volume and velocity of private expenditure also, and this will terminate the present seasonal reaction and lead to another new upswing in trade.

When this occurs, Major Angas argues, general confidence will revive and the movement will gather momentum, for there will then come into general operation all the virtuous-circle factors of the business cycle: larger purchases, a fall in retail stocks, increased orders to manufacturers, increased manufacture and larger industrial incomes paid out in the course of production, larger expenditure by workers before the new production is completed, a further decline in inventories and the prospect of still higher prices, increased manufacture by makers for stock in the hope of a rise, hurried buying by consumers in the fear of it, increased borrowing from the banks by middlemen, manufacturers and speculators, and a further increase in the bank credit currency. A "virtuous" upward spiral will thus have begun; the vicious circle will be forgotten, while "boom psychology" will add fuel to the flames. It is this prediction in which Canadians have special interest, for as conditions improve in the neighboring republic they will improve in Canada. On the social policy of President Roosevelt, Major Angas has this to say: "As regards the President's political bias: He is neither out-and-out Socialist nor out-and-out Capitalist. He certainly desires to help the under-dog, and apparently thinks that there is room for a fairer redistribution of wealth. He also intends to eliminate all financial abuses; but for all that he fully realizes that under the Capitalist system profits are the main-spring of industry, and that if the prospect of profit is eliminated, either through over-taxation, too high wage rates, controlled prices, confiscation or deflation, employers will become loath to produce and employ. Unemployment will, in consequence, grow, and the size of the distributable cake will diminish. The administrator's first aim, therefore, must always be to let industries make reasonable profits, and thus stimulate expansion and general employment; for it is only if the cake expands as a whole that all will be able to have bigger portions.

"But that is not to say that the President's sympathies lie only with the capitalists. He merely realizes that, so long as capitalism remains, he must take full account of the all-controlling profit motive, if the workers are to benefit. Nor, incidentally, does the fact that the government tries to raise general wages with prices, prove that its sympathies are solely socialist. Raising wages with prices is not an anti-business measure, for, if traders are to be prosperous, and if profits are to continue, effective demand must keep pace with prices and supply.

"Meanwhile, the President's plan to eliminate financial abuses should have the moral support of all. His general policy, of course, is a mixed one of relief, recovery, and reform, and all his bills have these goals as their motive, although naturally, some of them, e.g., the Securities Act and his bill for shorter hours, have temporarily interfered with the upswing of business, and thus for a while have appeared contradictory.

"His rules and regulations at the moment are stiff, but when young horses are being broken in they require a tight rein at the outset. Subsequently you can ride them on the snaffle with safety." Thus does Major Angas's happy metaphor breathe optimism.

TRAFFIC CONTROL

IN CHICAGO A COMMITTEE HAS BEEN studying ways and means to reduce the number of motor-vehicle fatalities in that city, and recently the committee paid a visit to the city of Milwaukee, which has a surprisingly low record of deaths from street accidents. The committee found out that automobile accidents can be greatly reduced by the rigid enforcement of traffic regulations and by having the proper control of well-regulated traffic. The visiting delegates reached the conclusion that with law-enforcement similar to that in Milwaukee, "Chicago could save 500 lives a year, thousands in personal injuries and millions of dollars of economic loss."

If Victoria installed automatic traffic signals, a great deal of the congestion of traffic during the rush hours would be avoided. Pedestrian traffic also would be controlled and jay-walking would go out of fashion. It is hardly fair for the drivers of automobiles to be continually on the look-out for people dodging in and out between parked cars and dashing across the street between intersections. The sooner the city council adopts automatic traffic signals the better it will be for the pedestrian and the motorist alike. Particularly during the winter months it is harder for the motorist and pedestrian to see the old-fashioned stop-and-go signals, and the police officers standing in the centre of the street, but with illuminated automatic signals, traffic would not be taking the risk that it now has to take. The cost would be comparatively light.

ANOTHER AIR RACE

FRANCE ANNOUNCES ANOTHER great international air race to show the rest of the world that she "holds a place in the forefront of progress." She was not represented in the London-to-Melbourne race, and she naturally wants to show what she can do, to start a campaign, says the dispatch from Paris, to "put her aviation ahead of rival countries in the commercial field."

It was unfortunate that France had no entry for the unique classic which brought out such fine performances—the racing machine of Scott and Black, and the commercial planes flown by the Dutchmen and the Americans. But France's record in the air does not need an international race to demonstrate it again. Her airmen and her flying machines need play second fiddle to none.

The triumph of Scott and Black, however, seems to have aroused a controversy in the British press—which ought to be balm to the French heart—in which the following statement is made by The London Evening News:

"We are miles behind other countries in commercial air transport. The race was an ordinary trip for the Douglas.

The efficiency of American engines and aircraft was such that at no point did it have to stay long on the ground.

Only one Royal Air Force fighting plane is as fast as this flying train. To compare it with our civil aircraft is too degrading.

The allusion is to the fact that Scott and Black flew a "bullet-like racer," while the two Dutchmen flew an ordinary transport plane with five passengers, as did the American pair, but without passengers. Perhaps the French announcement and the press controversy will put British builders of commercial planes on their mettle. But it might be that The Evening News is rather exaggerating things.

HOW HITLERISM WORKS

LOTTE LEHMANN, THE CELEBRATED German Lieder and opera singer, has announced that she will never sing again in Germany. Her decision is the answer to General Goering's demand that if she wished to retain the title of "Kammersinger," a distinction which she shares with Elena Gerhardt and half a dozen other famous Continental artists, she must live in Berlin. She will not be dictated to, she says, by General Goering or anybody else as to her private arrangements.

Lotte Lehmann was born a German, but since she married, her husband, Herz Kraus, who is an Austrian, she has become an Austrian subject and lives in Vienna.

The title "Kammersinger" was originally conferred on any distinguished operatic singer who was commanded to appear at one or other of the German courts. The title has been retained, and is held now by the chief operatic artists in Berlin. Such are the ways of Hitlerism.

"Yes," said the bright lad who had amplified the school curriculum by judicious recourse to the movies. THE WAY IT SHOULD BE
The Edmonton Journal

Members of the party that put the present federal government into power, who were looking for appointments under the new franchise act, are naturally disappointed on not receiving them. But the selection by the franchise commissioner of those to fill the posts, without regard to political service, is as it should be, and it is to be hoped that the precedent thus set will become firmly established. Of the appointees 45 per cent are said to be Conservatives, 45 per cent Liberals, and 10 per cent Independents.

A grave problem worries the statements of the time—and I refuse to divulge the solution in advance—British Columbians know their liquor with a natural instinct for such things—and we find out what is wrong with Canada.

SERIOUS ISSUES

IT IS REALLY quite thrilling to see how much public attention and excitement is being lavished at the moment on the trial of Uncle Sam Gump for breach of promise—a legal performance which, I predict, will have ended in a complete surprise before this reaches type.

It is surprising, too, to see who is most interested in the fate of the distinguished Australian capitalist. Half a dozen leading politicians and business men have tried out to pry out of me this week some advance tip on the jury's verdict. While I could find out from the custodian of these secrets, the young man on this newspaper who handles the comic strips, my position in this fashion. While others may sneak up to the composing room of this paper and read the comic strips weeks in advance, I never try to pry out such secrets from those in authority; but it is a sure Mr. Gump would lose the case. Another was confident the verdict would be in his favor. A third, who was wise in the ways of politics, said he was confident the jury would disagree and thus avoid a decision. He was very skilled in the ways of politics, that fellow.

A leading clubman told me his customary poker game in the evening was usually ruined these days by discussions about Mr. Gump and I observe that Mr. Beak comes over here nearly every night now to borrow Mr. Gump's newspaper, which he never bothered to do during the last election.

Altogether, it is quite safe to say that far more thought, far more speculation, far more sheer mental anguish is being devoted to Mr. Gump and the comics generally than to the current economic and political problems of the time. Indeed, if we could get this continent talking half as hard about its public affairs as it thinks about Mr. Gump, if we would stop taking our comics seriously and treating our public affairs as comics, we could end the depression and usher in a new day before next week-end.

But instead of that, politics and economics get funnier and funnier, and the comics get sadder and sadder all the time. "It used to be that the public could go home at night and enjoy a few laughs over the comic, a safe and sound outlet for the serious side of life presented in the other parts of the paper. Now people go home and brood over the fate of Uncle Sam and laugh at the solemn enforcement of law at the corner of Yates and Douglas. If we could only make this continent talk like Mr. Gump to help him, I dare say you would begin to see some respect for politics. And both these gentlemen would do better than some politicians I could mention.

DISCRIMINATION

IN WASHINGTON the wrong-headed state government has reduced the price of liquor so that you can now buy a bottle of whiskey for 90 cents and a whole gallon of wine for $1 and gin for 75 cents. But it is announced at the headquarters of the British Columbia Liquor Board that there can be no reduction in liquor prices here because the federal and provincial governments together insist on taking a net profit on the liquor business of about 50 per cent.

Ah, yes, but don't let a mere matter of price, of filthy lucre, disturb you, honest British Columbia citizen, as you go into our government liquor stores. For the preposterously high prices prevailing here there is a splendid compensation. We are told by the liquor board that we would not drink the inferior liquor that the poor, ignorant citizens of Washington guzzle quite contentedly, here, according to an unnamed "expert" of the board, the people know too much about liquor by long tradition. They can't be fooled by synthetic gin made in bathtubs and whiskey compounded of raw alcohol, brown sugar and hell's fire. They insist on the best.

Yes, your British Columbian, unlike your poor ignorant Washingtonian, is born with a sense of discrimination in liquor, an instinct for these finer things. He is a natural connoisseur. And the knowledge that he has this sense of discrimination, that he does know and does insist on good liquor, should be ample compensation for our high prices. The British Columbian knows his liquor, which is remarkable in a way up the extravagant too expensive him to drink any. Still, I suppose we don't do too badly. Even in these hard times we spend twice as much for liquor in this province as for education, six times as much as for health and social services, twice as much as for unemployment relief. You may cut down on those luxuries of life, but trust a sensible British Columbian not to go short on the necessities. How satisfactory it is, indeed, in the midst of the depression, when we have had to give up the extravagant luxury of adequate food for a large part of our population, to know that the liquor business is increasing every day.

presumably are lacking in other races, and not especially noticeable in Canada.

"Another advantage to Canadians which these especially-selected English boys will confer is the gift of the refinements of life hitherto lacking in Canada owing to our absorption in pioneer life. These qualities, coming from a country where repose and cultured ease have marked her civilization for centuries, will eventually, it is hoped, produce a finer type of Canadianism than we, unfortunately possess at the present time."

I always knew there was something wrong with us in Canada, and I am grateful to this new organization for putting its finger right squarely on our trouble. We lack repose and cultured ease, justice, honesty, honor and courage and a few other things, but apart from that we seem to be a fairly worthy race, considering the country we live in. And if we can only get enough British public school boys from the governing classes, of excellent social standing, to fill the choicest posts in Canadian commercial, educational and administrative life, we may pull through yet, thanks to the promoters of the new immigrant movement. And moreover, so strong are the ties of the British Empire that they resist even the efforts of such misguided idiots to strengthen them.

TIME IT WAS STOPPED

To the Editor:—Periodically during the past years of the depression those who have been unfortunate enough, through circumstances beyond their control, to have to accept relief in order to keep body and soul together, have been subjected to a lot of unnecessary suffering through the actions of Dominion, provincial and municipal governments.

This suffering has been caused by these bodies trying to evade their share of the responsibility and circulating rumors of their reducing the amount of relief to be given, or the

DAVID SPENCER LIMITED

Maynard Is Guilty

Sentence in Breach of Trust Case Deferred Until End of Second Trial

James William Maynard was found guilty by Judge J. N. Ellis yesterday afternoon at the conclusion of his trial on the first charge brought against him of fraudulently converting to his own benefit the house and property of Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Brown, 2916 Fifth Street, conveyed to him in trust.

Sentence was deferred until the end of the second trial, which started at 10.30 o'clock this morning. Maynard, his liberty on bail automatically cancelled by his conviction, was at once taken in custody by the police, to be held until he is sentenced.

"The important fact to be determined is what took place in the interviews between the accused and the Browns leading up to the conveyance by the Browns to the accused," said Judge Ellis in delivering his judgment.

"It would be a reasonable inference to draw that giving the note and getting the deed was an absolute sale. But it is obvious that Brown is of a trusting nature. If I am to accept his evidence I must hold that as a result of the conference with the accused, he and his wife deeded their property to the accused for the purpose of enabling the accused to deal freely with it in the interests of the Browns and not as absolute owner."

The judge declared the taking of the notes by the Browns was more in the nature of an assurance than in payment for the property.

The judge also declared that his comments from the bench on Tuesday dealing with the letter of January 30, 1934, of the Browns, were such that might have held if later evidence had not been introduced by the prosecution.

"It is difficult to arrive at a complete understanding of what Brown had in mind when he gave his evidence in this court," the judge went on. "That he was parting with his property only with the intention that the accused would hold it in the interests of himself and his wife, I am satisfied beyond any doubt."

"While the accused stated that the transfer to him of the property was an absolute sale, it is remarkable he is rather insistent in stating he disclosed to the Browns that he was going to put a mortgage on the property. Also, the accused in answer to a question of the court, rather suggested the statement he made to Brown was purely gratuitous and had no bearing on the actual sale."

NOT IMPRESSED
"I must confess I was not impressed with the demeanor of the accused when he was in the box, nor the truthfulness of the statements he made."

"I got no assistance whatever from the witness, G. W. Rotherington, called on his behalf to testify as to what took place in Brown's house. While the letter of January 30, 1934, is somewhat ambiguous and difficult to understand in so far as it portrays a contract between the Browns and the accused, the difficulty is clearly settled by the accused's own conduct in signing the deed dated March 9, 1934, between the accused as grantor and the Browns as grantees."

"The accused has had considerable experience in dealing with real estate. It is evident Mr. Beckwith endeavored to incorporate into the conveyance language stronger than ultimately used."

The judge said that Mr. Beckwith had agreed to omit the use of the words complained of by Maynard only after his protest and that the use of the words, "in trust," in the document as finally completed and signed were probably by way of compromise. These words "in trust," the judge decided, were in the conveyance deed at the time it was signed by Maynard.

"I find as a fact that the words were in the deed, and the accused knew they were in and he signed the document," the judge continued.

"The accused has violated his trust and he is guilty and I find him so." Prosecutor Cleeve G. White arose and asked for judgment accordingly, which the judge immediately gave. Defence Counsel Patton then asked that sentence be withheld until after the trial of the second charge against Maynard, which was to follow at once. This the judge refused.

In his cross-examination, Prosecutor White asked about Mr. Maynard's other business activities in recent years. Mr. Maynard told of his interest in the B.C. Foot Hospital, his work in the shoe store, and the sale of properties. These sales included a piece of land at Elk Lake and selling three or four properties for his father.

"I have sold properties ever since the real estate boom of 1912," Mr. Maynard said.

Mr. White—"Did you buy and sell stocks as a part-time business activity?"

Mr. Maynard—"No, I never bought stocks."

Mr. Maynard said he received $200 a month from his father's store over a period of years. In recent years, however, it was cut to $150 a month.

Mr. Maynard said that at the start of his Fashion Bootery in 1925, his profits for the first year ran to some $9,800. In 1931, he testified, his net profits dropped down to around $100. In 1932, the year of the dealings with the Browns, he said he could not say what the profits were.

Mr. White—"You had extensive borrowings from people around the city?"

Mr. Maynard—"A little."

On objections from Mr. Patton against this trend of questioning, Mr. White said he desired to show that the accused was not in a position to carry out his deal with the Browns.

The judge declared what was important was what happened after the deal with Mr. Brown.

QUESTIONS RULED OUT
"I have already ruled I don't want to hear anything about these bankruptcy proceedings," the judge said in regard to repeated efforts of Mr. White to introduce facts brought out at the official bankruptcy inquiry.

On the objection of Mr. Patton, the judge definitely ruled out as inadmissible in a criminal hearing the evidence taken at the bankruptcy hearing. Questioned about the Elk Lake

Province to Spend $5,000 in Saanich

Norman W. Whittaker, M.P.P. for Saanich, announced at the annual meeting of the Saanich Liberal Association yesterday evening that the provincial government would spend $5,000 out of its works vote on Saanich roads. Owing to the comparatively good condition of the government roads in Saanich, it had not been planned to spend any money from the new programme there, he said, but after he had made representations to the Minister of Public Works, the $5,000 vote was made.

property, Mr. Maynard said the buyer knew about the mortgage.

J. Y. Copeman was recalled by Prosecutor White in rebuttal with regard to statements of Mr. Maynard to himself at the time of the conveyance and mortgage negotiations.

Prosecutor White wished to recall H. A. Beckwith to rebut statements of Mr. Maynard respecting alleged threats by Mr. Beckwith to induce her to sign the conveyance.

Judge Ellis, however, refused the application, ruling that the proposed statement of Mr. Beckwith would not be rebuttal and that as "a very astute member of the bar," he had covered his position fully in his previous examination.

Request of Prosecutor White to recall Mr. Brown in rebuttal was acceded to after an argument.

Mr. White—Did you hear Mr. Maynard say that he discussed with you, and it was with your consent that he put a mortgage on your place?

Mr. Brown—No, he never mentioned it. He never mentioned it or the Elk Lake property.

"Under the statute there could not have been a trust created in this case," Mr. Patton said in his final argument. "There was a transaction in August and we have the deed conveying the equity in the property to Maynard, that constitutes a sale. A note for $6,000 was given and Maynard was to pay $33 a month. He did not pay up and efforts were made to enforce collection."

Mr. Patton declared that Mr. Beckwith in his efforts to have Mr. Maynard sign the reconveyance to the Browns should have had independent legal advice as to what he was doing.

Judge Ellis asserted that Mr. Beckwith had not ordered Mr. Maynard not to go to any other lawyer for advice and that Mr. Maynard had had nearly one month in which to consult about his position.

"There was no evidence here of there being a trust," Mr. Patton said. "It all seems to be an effort to collect a debt through the criminal court. This is a debt collecting case put into the criminal courts."

Prosecutor White denied the prosecution was an effort to collect a civil debt, saying that a civil case had been launched in the Supreme Court.

"When Mr. Brown put his property in the name of the accused for the purpose of selling it, that, I say, constituted a trust and the accused was a trustee," Mr. White went on. "It was in no sense a sale. Maynard said the price was high and why should he buy that property with business poor, no money and the price of the property high?"

Mr. White asked why Mrs. Maynard should have been in terror when going to Mr. Beckwith's office if she and her husband really knew that the deal had not been a purchase.

"Mr. Maynard knew what the deal was and Mrs. Maynard knew what the deal was and they both knew they were in a very ticklish situation," Mr. White said.

RACKETEERS BEAT PAY TELEPHONES

New York, Oct. 25.—Two minor racketeers are bothering the telephone company these days, and very little progress is being made against them. One is the practice of stuffing bits of paper in the coin-return slots of pay telephones and coming back a few hours later to remove them and reap small harvests of nickels.

Busy pay stations in drug stores, hotels and railroad terminals seem to yield the biggest and fastest returns, and the gangs who prey on them seem to maintain regular routes and territories. The other racket is a less important one, but a much sadder commentary on the honesty of supposedly respectable folk. It has to do with cheating the company out of tolls for suburban calls. Here is a single example:

A man who commutes from Long Island to his Manhattan business has irregular, quitting hours and found he had to call his wife every afternoon to advise her of the time of his homecoming. So they devised a signal system. If the telephone rings at 4.30 sharp, it means that he will catch the 5 o'clock train. If it rings at 4.45, she knows that she is to meet the 5.50. A call at 5 o'clock tells her that he cannot get home to dinner.

She never answers the telephone, so there is no charge.

Racketeers occasionally climb trees, but they do not do so habitually.

EASTERN STAR AS HOSTESSES

Nearly 300 Attend Queen City Chapter's Dance and Bridge Party

The Halloween season came in with eclat yesterday evening when nearly 300 guests danced or played bridge at the Shrine Hall, members of the Queen City Chapter, Order of the Eastern Star, being the popular hostesses. Mrs. T. D. Roberts, worthy matron, and Mr. P. Edmonds, worthy patron of the chapter, received the guests, assisted by the officers.

APPROPRIATE DECORATIONS

Gilded owls and fearsome-looking pumpkins, which later were auctioned off to end their days in luscious pies, were featured in the very effective decorations of the ballroom, where a merry crowd danced with evident enjoyment to the excellent music played by Findler's orchestra. A colorful balloon dance and other novelties proved popular innovations, and Mr. Jamna Wilby made a most efficient master of ceremonies.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Swire Mitchell had charge of the bridge, which was arranged in the smaller halls, both of which were also attractively decorated in keeping with the general idea of Halloween. The winners of the bridge prizes were: First, Mrs. T. Barber and Alderman Alex. Peden, second, Mrs. G. Heyes and Mr. Hall.

The delicious supper, which was in charge of Mrs. Ed. Smith and her efficient committee, was served in the lower hall at small tables attractively centred with flowers in the Halloween colors, including marigolds, while around the walls sported grinning cats and awesome witches astride broomsticks.

CONTEST WINNERS

In the contest held during the evening, Mr. S. T. Holmes, Seaview Avenue, was the winner of the half cord of wood donated by the Kingham-Gillespie Co. and Mr. J. Flack, Monterey Avenue, won the handsome set of bowls, the gift of Mrs. Wm. White.

The proceeds of the affair will be devoted to the chapter's Christmas charity work, and many congratulations upon its success were tendered the energetic and capable committee in charge of arrangements, including Mrs. John T. Clark, the convener, Mrs. R. L. Cox and Mrs. J. M. Newcomb, who in turn tendered their thanks to all who contributed prizes or assisted in any way.

JUDGE TALKS WITH CHILD

Gloria Vanderbilt Said to Have Asked to Remain With Aunt

New York, Oct. 25.—Ten-year-old Gloria Vanderbilt told Justice John F. Carew yesterday whether she preferred to live with her mother or her aunt, Mrs. Harry Payne Whitney, but the decision was sealed temporarily in Supreme Court records. The New York Times says, however, that the little girl emphatically chose Mrs. Whitney. The choice was made in a three-hour conversation between Gloria and the judge. The heiress to $2,000,000 for whose custody a court battle has been raging, was questioned by Justice Carew in his chambers. The child, it was learned, was given an opportunity to show what religious training she had received. She recited a number of prayers to the justice.

COLOR LINE IS MARRIAGE BAR

Associated Press. Los Angeles, Oct. 25.—Indefinite postponement of the projected marriage of Ellen Wilson McAdoo, granddaughter of Woodrow Wilson, and Rafael Lopez, an Onate handsome actor twice her age, was announced yesterday by the young woman's mother. Immediately there were whispers of a possible elopement. Friends of De Onate said he was upset by the publicity following the announcement of the marriage. As to whether he is of Spanish blood, as he claims, or of Filipino or Malay stock, the California law does not permit intermarriage of Caucasians and Filipinos.

Los Angeles, Oct. 25.—Marriage plans of Ellen McAdoo have been "Postponed for the present," the nineteen-year-old daughter of Senator William Gibbs McAdoo said today after a spokesman for her father announced she would be disinherited if she married Rafael Lopez De Onate, actor.

"We are not going to get married right away," said Miss McAdoo. "But that does not mean we have given up hope or that either of us is backing out."

MOOSEHEART DAY OBSERVED

Local Lodges Held Annual Celebration Monday Evening

At the Moose Hall on Monday evening one of the outstanding events of the year was staged by the Local Lodges of Moose and Women of the Moose in commemorating the founding of Mooseheart on October 27, by Senator James J. Davis, this day expressing anew an ideal of vital significance, reminding the fires of enthusiasm and loyalty to the great organization. Starting at 7 p.m., the Moose Chapter No. 15 held a successful meeting presided by Senior Regent Elizabeth Jane.

The audit report of the finances for the last quarter was read by the recorder, Mrs. Helen Parer, for which she and auditors were thanked. Past Regent Mary Pearce reported on the joint meeting held at Mrs. Evelyn Clark's for Mooseheart plans. A letter from Lodge 1390 notified the chapter of the church service on Sunday evening, Oct. 28, at 7:15 p.m., at the Victoria City Temple, North Park Street, this to be a fitting climax for the Mooseheart anniversary and every chapter member urged to be present at this gathering.

The social convener, Mrs. Evelyn Clark gave the report of the successful silver tea held at the hall on Monday, Oct. 22. The drill captain, Mrs. Jean Lumley, reported on the drill practice and hoped that at least one practice a month could be held. The kitchen committee for the month of Nov. will be: Mrs. Margaret Robertson, Mrs. Helen Allan, Mrs. Ruth Panting. The meeting then adjourned till Monday, Nov. 12 which will be business night.

Amid a large gathering of members and friends the entertainment to celebrate the twenty-first anniversary of Mooseheart Day was fittingly opened, the dictator, Mr. George Allen of Lodge 1390, conducting the impressive 9 o'clock service which is held whenever there is a gathering of the Moose in honor of the children of Mooseheart who at this hour kneel at their bedside and offer their prayers to the Supreme Dictator of the Universe.

Following this service the chairman, W. Kettle, tendered a hearty welcome to all and the orchestra played the opening number, the "Repar Band." A concertina solo was played by A. Jasper, also a cornet solo by C. Alexander. This was followed by the vocal solo "On the Road to Mandalay" sung by C. Prescott.

D. Taylor gave an interesting address on Mooseheart, its origin and impressions left when he visited that great city leaving him with imperishable memories. He then turned to the cradle at the Baby Village—still the graduate of eighteen. The purposefulness of the Local Order of the Moose was the subject of his address, but when the fraternity is interpreted in the light of Mooseheart, when one sees a great procession of orphaned children tenderly cared for, reared in an atmosphere of ethical beauty, taught the fundamental principles of patriotism, character and service so that they may start into manhood and womanhood prepared and unafraid, then one begins to realize and to appreciate the story and purposefulness of this international fraternity which carries the stamp of approval of over 10,000 professional men and women who annually visit this great academic and trade school to observe and study and to pass their findings on to other organizations, he observed.

He was given a hearty vote of thanks for his delightful talk, and the programme continued with Mr. Chalmers giving a recitation, "The Difference," followed by the orchestra in "Mississippi Cabaret." Mrs. Eudene was accompanist throughout the programme. The concert was brought to a close by the Junior Legion Drum Corps giving a few selections.

Supper was then served, the tables being artistically decorated with chrysanthemums and harts, it being covered by Mrs. Evelyn Clark and those helping were Mrs. Tryphena Alexander, Mrs. Mary Pearce, Miss D. Guelpa, Messrs. P. Leach, J. Pearce, W. Pavett, D. McAulay and F. Moulton.

Following supper, dancing was enjoyed till 11:30 p.m., at which time the evening was brought to a close.

Your Baby and Mine

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

MRS. ELDRED TELLS MOTHERS HOW TO MEET RAINY DAYS. Rainy, bleak days of fall call for some new and inspiring activities for some freshly unusual toys to keep the children interested. To be penned up in a warm house soon loses its appeal and the child's action-hungry muscles begin to clamor for an outlet for their unused energy. If the mother fails to recognize and provide for such needs the children will be ready to bite nails at the end of a day in the house. This is especially true of smaller tots whose play interest is so limited. They grow very cross and demanding of parents when they can't expend their energies in running and jumping out of doors.

BOATS FROM KITCHEN CHAIRS. A room might be cleared so that kiddy cars would have larger spaces for travel. An ironing board on a box would make a satisfactory taster. Some kitchen chairs turned sideways and interlaced so as to offer uneven surfaces for climbing would pass muster as a mountain or a boat and offer far more adventure possibilities than any chair set firmly on its four legs. Two chairs facing each other and covered with a sheet or small blanket make a vehicle for ocean or land travel which will keep children huddled up in it for hours at a time. The should be a box of toys stowed away on the shelf for a day.

They may be toys bought cheaply because of their variety and with less emphasis upon stability. There should be always needle and thread and bright scraps in such a box, colored crayons and old books for coloring, a blunt scissors and pictures for cutting.

There may be also a collection of ends of colored yarn which by the magic of an empty spool and four nail heads may be metamorphosed into the most enticing ropes of intricate and fascinating design. I usually had visions on such a day of making enough for a carpet for the living room. The vision lasted as long as the rain.

DISCOVERY—IN THE CLOSET
The pennied-up school-age child will find some adventures with the cook book inspiring, may enjoy cleaning out drawers and closets and in so doing discover a dozen things she has wanted to do but never had time for. (We are taking it for granted that boys will go outdoors irrespective of weather.)

There is no doubt that a day will pass more happily for all concerned if we realize how irksome is restraint to the average child and offer her something physically satisfying and interestingly stimulating with which to pass the long hours.

"N-n-n-o, I can't say that I have.
It seems to me there have been business letters—that is, letters with printed return addresses on the envelopes. I haven't noticed."
"Not just circular advertising letters?"
"No," she said, "first-class mail—letters that came in crisp envelopes."

CHAPTER XVII

Sidney Griff started pacing the floor. Bleeker watched him with frowning speculation. Alice Lorton's blue eyes were fastened upon him with wide candor, the candor with which a young patient regards a skilled physician who has come to minister to his suffering—an expression of blind faith which bordered upon devotion.
"How about magazines?" Griff asked suddenly, sweeping his hand in an inclusive gesture toward the magazines on the table. "These weren't purchased at news stands, were they?"
Alice Lor-ton shook her head.
Griff picked several up, looked at the back page.
"They were, all Esther's," the girl said. "She subscribed to them. Some of them came in wrappers. Some of them had her name stamped on the covers."
"You don't know anything about her family?"
"No."
"Know whether she'd been married or not?"
"I don't think she had. She didn't have much use for men."
"That must indicate she'd been married and separated."
"Yes, it might, but she seemed sort of . . . well . . . unsophisticated, if you know what I mean."
"Humph!" Griff said skeptically.
"How often did she ask you to leave when she had men friends coming?"
"No very often. Just once or twice a month perhaps."
"What did she do with her evenings?"
"She read."
"Didn't go out?"
"No, she was a shy, retiring girl in many ways. Esther was always a mystery to me. She had quite a bit of mail come in, and she wrote quite a few letters. But that seemed to be about the only social contact she had. She loved to read. She was very much inclined to curl up on the couch and spend the evening there reading."

"What did she do the evenings when you had your friends come to see you?" Griff asked.
"She went out to picture shows. I think, although she didn't care much for them."

"She came home late?"
"Yes, quite late."
"Did you tell her what time to come home?"
"No, I just used to tell her that I would have a boy friend in for the evening."
"How often did you have your friends here?"
"Not very often—not as often as she did. You see, I don't know many boys."
"You're working?"
"No, I haven't been for some time."
"You're here quite a bit then during the daytime?"
"Sometimes, yes."
"And Esther Ordway was here quite a bit during the daytime?"
"No," Alice Lor-ton said, "that's the funny thing about her. She used to get up early, before anyone was stirring. She got up at 6 o'clock in the morning and always left the apartment by quarter to 7, sometimes earlier. She was gone all day, invariably. I don't know where she went or what she did."
"But you don't think she was working?"
Alice Lor-ton lowered her eyes.
"I don't know," she said.
Griff looked over at Bleeker.
"I think," he said, "this is about all we can find out here."
In the hallway Griff turned to Bleeker.
"Has it impressed you," he said,
"how closely the description of this missing girl checks with the description Morden gave of the girl who claimed to be the hitch-hiker? The one who gave the name of Mary Briggs, and who was riding in the car with the man who had been using the name of Frank Cothran?"
Bleeker paused mid-stride, gave a quick exclamation.
"That's so," he said. "But it's not much of a description."
"I think," he said, "this is about
all we can find out here."

looking—something that's a key point, something that's been reported to us and the significance of which we haven't appreciated."
"Don't you think that always happens in a criminal investigation?"
Bleeker asked.
"Not always," Griff said. "You've got several things to do, things that are more or less matters of routine.
And then you've got one thing to do that may make trouble."
"What's that?" Bleeker asked.
"I'll tell you the routine things first. You've got to try and find out what bank Esther Ordway carried an account in. You've got to get in touch with the Lippman Realty Company and find out what they know about her. You've got to have men watch the apartment. You've got to try and locate Mrs. Blanche Malone before Carl Racine locates her. But in order to be certain, you've got to keep a man tagging Racine."
"What would Mrs. Malone have to do with the case?" Bleeker asked. "We seem to have located the woman in this case."
Griff shook his head.
"You can never tell," he said,
"until the cards are all on the table.
You've got to get all the pieces of a jig-saw puzzle before you can put the thing together and have it make sense. I think Mrs. Cathay employed Racine to locate Mrs. Blanche Malone. At any rate, she's connected with the case in some way."
"Now, here's something you've got to do that may make trouble. You've got to get some young woman in whom you have confidence. She should go to an apartment and take the apartment under the name of Esther Ordway. Then she should go to the postoffice and leave a forwarding address, forwarding the mail of Esther Ordway from the Little Apartments at 319 Robinson Street to this apartment where the woman is living."
"That's going to get us into trouble with the postal authorities," Bleeker objected.
"It won't if they don't find out about it," Griff remarked.
"But they'll be bound to find out about it."
"I'm not so certain."
"But why go to all that trouble to find the woman's mail? Whoever is mixed up in the case with her, or knows that she's mixed up in the case, knows that she's disappeared.
You can't make me believe that she was spirited away. I think she deliberately stepped out of the picture and I'm willing to bet two to one that we find where she took an airplane."
Griff shook his head.
"I've got a theory about Esther Ordway," he said. "So far I haven't got enough data on the subject to back up the theory, but I want to get the additional facts just as rapidly as possible. In the meantime, you can have your men cover the outgoing airplanes if you want to, but if you make a bet, you're very likely to lose it."

Even British Somaliland reports that prosperity is returning.

The meeting endorsed a protest of the Victoria Liberal Women's Forum against the method of registering married women on the federal voters list in their husband's names, which causes them, it is claimed, to lose their franchise.

A complaint against alleged incompetency of enumerators in making mistakes in names, was voiced, but no action taken after an explanation by Mr. Chambers that the lists would be revised and corrections made.

Election of officers resulted as follows: Honorary presidents, Rt. Hon. W. L. Macdonnell King and Premier T. D. Martin; Honorary vice-presidents, E. W. Woodhouse and F. R. Wood; Honorary secretary, J. W. Woodhouse.

Federal Policy On Unemployment Need

Liberal Party Proposes Non-political Commission to Deal With Problem as Well as Preventive Measures, Says Alan Chambers; Saanich Member Discusses Latest Cut in Grant

It is not too late for the federal government to formulate a definite policy on the unemployment question. Unemployment was first regarded as a temporary matter, but it has lasted four winters now, and will last at least two more. The Liberal party had a definite plan for handling it, Alan Chambers, Liberal candidate in Nanaimo federal riding, declared at the annual meeting of the Saanich Liberal Association yesterday evening.

Right Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, he explained, proposed to put the whole thing up to an expert non-political commission, which could draft the best beneficial programme possible. Mr. King would not ask parliament for a blank cheque. The Liberals were also committed to a policy of preventing unemployment where it was humanly possible, and to this end had in mind unemployment insurance legislation.

"THE WRONG WAY"
Mr. Chambers devoted much of his talk to this subject. He showed how Premier Bennett, before the 1930 election, had promised to solve it by raising tariff barriers. He tried this and had proved to the satisfaction of everyone but himself that this was the wrong way.

"Mr. Bennett told us 'I see the job, give me the power and I'll do it,'" said Mr. Chambers. "Well, he saw the job, he took the power, and now he has failed."

Referring to the "blank cheque" policy, Mr. Chambers pointed out that of $115,000,000 spent up to this year on relief only $20,000,000 had been voted direct by parliament, the other $95,000,000 having been spent as Mr. Bennett and the cabinet saw fit.

"Canada is looking as she never looked before for leadership, and you know, as I know, that we Liberals can give it to her," he concluded.

NEW RELIEF GRANTS
Norman Whittaker, M.P.P. for Saanich, also spoke, dealing at some length with the new appointments of the federal relief grant to municipalities.

Approximately, he said, reduction in the federal grant to B.C. amounted to $111,000 a month. This had to be absorbed by the government and the municipalities. The plan was that the municipalities would accept about $17,500 of this and the government the rest. It was only fair, he said, the municipalities should remember the provincial government should look upon it as joint burden and place the responsibility where it rightly belongs—on the federal government at Ottawa.

Bennett said before 1930 that unemployment was a national issue, but now he is putting it back on the municipalities, he declared. Mr. Whittaker reviewed the attempts of the provincial government in its successive conferences to have a "work and wages" policy put into effect. He also detailed some of the accomplishments of the last session, stressing particularly the new legislation and the subsequent activity of the Board of Industrial Relations in enforcing this and raising the wage standards in the province.

He touched briefly on the federal political situation. In the east, he said, the people had decided that Mr. King would be the next premier. Those in B.C. who doubted this decided the same thing.

PROGRESS OF SURVEY TOLD

Reasonable Agreements Reached on Three Points in Education, Says Dr. Weir

The educational survey in British Columbia has reached a reasonable agreement on the following points: the burden on land must be eased, income taxation should be based on the ability to pay, and educational districts should be enlarged as far as possible. Hon. G. M. Weir told the Mount View High School Parent-Teacher Association yesterday afternoon.

The speaker outlined educational development from the time of Huxley, noted English author of early fame, when modern subjects had been criticised as "fads and trifles" for pupils, to the present when modern subjects were regularly included in the school curricula.

There was a great need for education just now, Dr. Weir said, for the expansion of the department of correspondence classes which were receiving applications from relief camps and the adult population generally.

He claimed a high-school education day was as necessary as an elementary education was in the time of the grandmothers and grandfathers of the present generation. The legislation introduced in England in 1922 when it was declared the wealth of the state should be used for educational purposes, was viewed as the greatest modern advance in education.

He pointed out that 25 per cent of Canadians attended school, yet only 3 per cent of all money spent went towards this service. In 1932 $165,000,000 was spent on all types of Canadian education, while $4,750,000,000 was consumed for other purposes.

Enthusiasm Marks First Youth Rally

Need For Co-operation Stressed By Speakers of Federated Council

That the youth of every city across Canada hold a public inquiry into the reasons which prevented them from working was suggested at Victoria's first youth rally yesterday evening by Don Smith, vice-president of the Federated Council of Youth.

"We live to-day in one of the most productive nations of the earth, yet thousands are without what they most desperately need—work. Big Business is organized to prevent us from working."

An audience of over 500 crowded the Chamber of Commerce Auditorium and wildly applauded the four speakers, in what was described as the "first round-up" of youth in the city.

UNWANTED GENERATION
"The unwanted generation," said Mr. Smith, "knows no frontiers. An age is dying, lamps are going out. It depends on us if they are to be extinguished completely."

"The apathy and silence of youth will settle the question just as well as their outspoken answer." He appealed for youth to get together on a concerted course. "United alone could they save themselves."

Youth, he said, was being ignored because it did not know its own powers. United it could challenge the whole parliamentary system of the Dominion.

Mr. Smith referred to Upton Sinclair's EPIC plan in California. Millions of dollars, he said, were being poured out to subsidize the press, the radio to prevent Sinclair from letting the unemployed make their own needed goods. The same game was being played here in California. Unlimited cash was available to stop the unemployed from finding work, but relief was cut to the limit.

"The unemployed can shiver and starve, but profits must go on."

JAMES GIBSON
James Gibson, Rhodes scholar and president of the Universities' League of Nations Society, called for clear and adequate thinking on the part of youth to understand the consequences of their actions, and act.

He told how the post-war generation was trying to fit into a changing civilization. Their attitude was one of questioning, flavored with scepticism.

Week after week they were confronted with talk of war; they had seen a disarmament conference drag on for years. In the future, the result of the economically upset system in which they lived, the curious paradox of need amid plenty, caused by the faulty assignment of purchasing power, due not so much to the individual as to the system, and only changeable by the concerted action of young people.

IDLE WILSON
Canada has been a young nation, but not a nation for youth. In its pioneering must be done, not in the backwoods, but in the field which we used to leave to the old folks at home," said Miss Idle Wilson.

Youth must act, she said, and must be sure it is acting forward and not back. Young people were not especially "nationally conscious." They must act or be acted upon. It was this fact which had allowed their vitality to be diverted in many European nations to nationalistic ends.

Miss Wilson described some of the movements and societies in which the youth of the world was moving both nationally and internationally.

She saw the seeds of a new era in the rural youth movements of China and India which were turning away from nationalism to a new programme of rural recuperation.

OPEN FORUM
The number of older people in the audience was stressed during a brief open forum period, held towards the end of the meeting. The only young man to speak in this period asserted that the young people of Victoria should be condemned from the house tops for their small proportion in the audience.

A man of fifty told how he had worked all his life for a great store and now, he said, he was "lucky" to have a woman, young and beautiful, in the basement of another store, scrubbing. Was this the progress of Victoria, he asked. He was heartily glad to see that youth was at last facing present problems.

A woman of the war generation told the young people that her generation was solidly behind them, and needed their courage. They wished that they had had the chance that youth had now.

Hans Kroeger compared the position of youth in Russia and Canada. The real question, he said, was whether anything would ever give youth the chance which it deserved, except the complete elimination of the capitalist system.

ROYAL OAK
Prior to her departure for Vancouver, Miss Dorothy Hodgson was the guest of honor at a farewell party on Tuesday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Campion, Wilkinson Road.

Mr. Boorman, on behalf of the Wilkinson Road choir, made a presentation of a leather-bound hymnary. Following this, Rev. Mr. Allen, Mr. Campion and Mr. Phillips, choir leader, spoke a few words, mentioning the assistance given by the choir by Miss Hodgson and assured her of the good wishes of all.

The gathering broke up with the singing of "Blest be the Tie That Binds" and "Auld Lang Syne."

H. Winch, M.P.P., Delivers Vigorous Speech Challenging Present System

"We are in the midst of the greatest war that the world has ever known. Its casualties are greater than those of the World War. We must fight in the war against poverty. Unless we come out victors, our civilization is finished like the civilizations of the past," declared Harold Winch, M.P.P., at the first Youth Rally yesterday evening in the Chamber of Commerce auditorium.

"In this war there is a far greater objective. We are fighting for ourselves and those who will come after us, not for others."

"Youth must be shown that the greatest adventure of all time is before them; the death of the old system and the birth of the new. Canada is the battle-ground of youth just as Russia was."

"Here is an adventure for young and old, male and female, old and doddering or fresh from the school, fighting in the brotherhood of man. We must build a new system. A worldly house is built by men for others to live in. We shall build our mansion from the foundation up, and having built it, we shall live in it."

ENTHUSIASTIC AUDIENCE
Mr. Winch spoke for over thirty minutes. Every time the chairman tried to point out that he had overstepped his allotted time, the speaker told of the starvation amid plenty which he had seen across the Dominion.

Addressing his hearers as "comrades, friends and fellow youth," with graying hair and bowed faces, the speaker told of the starvation amid plenty which he had seen across the Dominion.

Dramatically he told of a woman at Penitence whom he had seen attempt to drown herself and two children, while piles of apples were dumped to rot in the same city, to keep the price of apples down. He told of a man who had seen a farmer water his plants with unwanted milk, while the children of children throughout the province were suffering from malnutrition.

SEEK RIGHT TO LIVE
Everywhere young men and women were riding the box cars and hitchhiking in search of work, in search of the right to live.

"Before we are born," he said, "is the only time in our lives when we have perfect economic security. Ever after that, we are struggling between two desires: that to return to the place from which we came, and that to kick and strike out."

"There was a post generation after the war, and then another. The older generation must accept the responsibility for the conditions in which that generation which they brought into the world now lives."

"The problem can only be solved by the combined efforts of young and old, but especially of the young."

NEW SLOGAN
"We need a new slogan. Not 'Work and Wages' but 'Education, Organization and Action'—education to an understanding of man, of the present system, and of the future; nothing can stop an educated organization, then we can take whatever action is needed to reach our objective. I cannot say what action we will need in the future, unless we do something about the present first."

BELOW MINIMUM
"The junior clerks in the Parliament Buildings," Mr. Winch said, "receive less than the minimum wage."

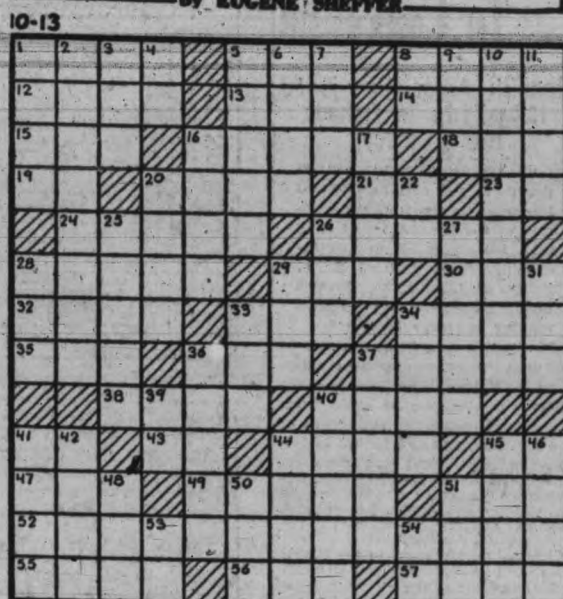

"That is a lie," shouted a woman's voice from the back of the hall. Her interruption was finally silenced by the crowd.

"Those who maintain the present system," the speaker continued, "will not see what is under their noses. It is the same all through the province."

"I have seen girls in Vancouver selling their souls for 25 cents to feed their bodies."

"You know the system is broken."

SHOW STREET TENDER OVER UNFORTUNATES
New York, Oct. 25.—Broadway's chronic sentimentality is remarkable. No other place or profession, it seems, so loyally cares for its own unfortunates as does the "Main Stem" and its myriad branches of "show business." Tearful tears are being shed right now over the ornate tale of a famous old producer who is working for the PWA and is enrolled in an amateur class in stage management. He listens attentively while smart youngsters lecture on the theatrical tricks which he helped originate forty years ago.

For those who do not even have PWA jobs, Broadway stages benefits and gives unstintingly from its own pocket. An out-of-work actor can get anything from a can of beans to a top hat from the Stage Relief Association. And the Actor's Dinner Club has served many more than a million meals, free, to the hungry and jobless of the profession. And these kindnesses are provided in careful secrecy. At the Dinner Club, for instance, not even the waiters and waitresses (jobless performers themselves) know whether a diner is a cash customer or a non-paying guest.

Conservatives Laud Bennett

Pooley, Dickie and Plunkett
Sing Premier's Praises at Esquimalt Gathering

Premier Bennett worries every moment of the day, if not every moment of the night, about the problems of Canada. While a millionaire, he has the interests of the poor people of Canada at heart. The people of the Dominion can thank God that Mr. Bennett has been at the head of things in Canada during the last four years, speakers claimed at the Conservative annual meeting of the Esquimalt Conservative Association, in Kent's Hall, Esquimalt, yesterday evening.

C. H. Dickie, M.P. for Nanaimo, which also includes the Esquimalt electoral district, said those who have sat under Mr. Bennett in the federal house knew that the premier had given more mental and physical ability and financial assistance to the Conservative party in Canada than any other man. By good legislation Mr. Bennett had brought about a favorable trade balance during the lean years of the immediate past, Mr. Dickie stated.

"When the word went out that the Bennett government was doing a profitable business, confidence was restored," Mr. Dickie said. "We were brought before the eyes of the world. But these have been very trying years, and we members can hardly expect the same popular acclaim we received some years ago. The Bennett government, however, has done all it could do to get conditions back to normal. Canada is now just as well off, if not better off, than many other countries."

"When Mr. Bennett took office," Mr. Dickie said, "the new Canada was buying more from the United States than that nation was buying from us. In his wisdom he saw that the only chance for Canada was within the British Empire. The London Conference did not accomplish all we had hoped from it, and we were jettisoned for this by the Liberal members from the floor of the House in Ottawa."

The success of the Ottawa Conference was largely due to the Prime

SHE FLEW PART WAY IN BIG RACE

Starting from England with the Melbourne derby planes, Jacqueline Cochran of New York, above, and her navigator, Wesley Smith of Philadelphia, flew as far as Bucharest. There she withdrew from the race, saying her plane had developed defects. Pilot Cochran often appears in male attire as pictured above.

Minister Mr. Dickie said, and as a result of this conference the lumber trade in British Columbia has been booming, he stated.

"Our lumber industry is now in such a fine condition that we can hardly get ships enough to move it. There are more men than ever before in our sawmills, and the lumber business is going ahead by leaps and bounds. All this was done, just as sure as I am standing here, by that wonderful man, Mr. Bennett. We know all these wonderful things are due entirely to the initiative of Mr. Bennett. I know he worries every moment of the day, if he does not worry every moment of the night, about the problems of Canada."

Mr. Dickie dealt with the Canadian National Railways, telling how the present government had fired 103 officials and cut the salaries of the vice-presidents in half. The C.N.R. was "bleeding us to death," Mr. Dickie said. He criticized the late Sir Henry Thornton for "spending money on hotels and ships on the eve of an election." This was done, Mr. Dickie said, "to buy the Liberal party for Canada." By his actions with the railway Mr. Bennett had made himself unpopular with the rail-roads of the system, Mr. Dickie said, but it had to be done, and it was not done with pleasure by Mr. Bennett.

NOT AN AUTOCRAT

"The big questions of the day," Mr. Dickie declared, "are receiving the consideration of Mr. Bennett and his government, as they are every thinking man in Canada and the United States. When anyone tells you Mr. Bennett is an autocrat, that person is wrong. Mr. Bennett is right, more times in proportion than any public man Canada has ever had. He is a good, kindly man. I have known him to listen to the tales of woe of poor old men and women, while great financiers from Montreal waited patiently to see him. He is a great, big, broad-minded man, and is not an autocrat."

Mr. Dickie dealt briefly with relief problems, and said the present system of relief was not improving the calibre or initiative of the recipients. Let a boy come out of school and hang around the street corners a while and he loses all discipline, he said.

"We must find some way," he said. "Roosevelt is trying and is not succeeding. We are driving people out of this country to evade taxation. There is no way unless you put four people doing the work of three. That is a generation, would simplify things. The highly protected unions should be cut down. The great logging camps are struggling alone, and can not afford wage increases."

"THANK GOD FOR BENNETT"
"Thank God we have had R. B. Bennett in Canada during the last four years," stated Harry Pooley, M.P. for Esquimalt, in briefly addressing the gathering. Mr. Pooley at the outset of his talk said he was a Conservative at the last election, although he ran as a Unionist. He thanked the "good Conservatives of Esquimalt" for fighting for him.

"We had to absorb the brunt of the depression," said Mr. Pooley, referring to the late Conservative Government. "We had many unpleasant things to do, and we did them, and then got damned because we had to do them."

"I hope the people of British Columbia are satisfied with what they got at the last election," he said. "Work and wages," as a voice in the back of the hall asked, "where?"

"That cry was a good one to catch votes," Mr. Pooley said, "but just as soon as they were elected they packed up their traps and went to Ottawa, and they have been going back and forth ever since."

"And they went to New York, too," said the voice from the back of the hall.

"Yes, and other places, too," replied Mr. Pooley. "It is true the federal government should lend a helping hand to the provinces," Mr. Pooley said, "but there is a limit. The federal government has been just as hard hit. There has been the colossal burden of the C.N.R. It is a wonder Canada hasn't gone under. I don't know how that problem is going to be solved."

WEAK-MINDED MAN
"If we had had Mackenzie King, or some equally weak-minded man at the top of things in Canada during the last four years what would have happened to us?" Mr. Pooley asked. "Mr. Bennett has done marvelously well, and the results are seen to-day."

When Mr. Pooley reminded the gathering he had been serving Esquimalt as provincial member for twenty-three years someone in the hall shouted out, "You're only a flapper yet, Harry."

"LORD MATCH BOX"
D. B. Plunkett, M.P. for Victoria, said he had been hurt when he heard Mr. Bennett referred to some time ago as "Lord Match Box." "How you ever thought," Mr. Plunkett said, "what would have happened to Canada if Mr. Bennett had not been the great financier he is. And then this man, who has carried all the burdens, is referred to in this way. We must be grateful for a man who can look through the mist and see his duty to Canada. People who talk this way are not fair and not Canadian; they are biting the hand that feeds them."

The average person, Mr. Plunkett said, does not know how hard pressed has been the federal government to sustain the Dominion of Canada. The four western provinces have been sustained almost wholly by the federal treasury, he said. He said there was no use in the talk of going to Ottawa and demanding things. Before that could be done the B.N.A. Act would have to be changed, he said.

"As Mr. King ever told you what he would do for the provinces?" Mr. Plunkett asked. He has made no promises. Sometimes Mr. King grows eloquent in the House, and once I heard him say, 'Why, all this effort to help the farmers is all bosh.' The Liberals are free traders in opposition, but extreme protectionists when in power."

Mr. Plunkett said the Prime Minister is willing to make a trade treaty with the United States if Canada is given a fair deal and the United States does not get the best of it.

"Mr. King wants you to forget the past actions of his government," Mr. Plunkett said. "All the King opposition has done at Ottawa has been to belittle everything that has been brought in."

TOURIST TRADE

Mr. Plunkett referred to the new tourist branch that has recently been formed under the Department of Railways and Canals. He said that tourists in Canada each year use 4,000,000 pounds of butter and 4,000,000 dozen of eggs. He said British Columbia should do nothing to deter the tourists from visiting here.

OFFICERS ELECTED

Capt. J. W. Cox, president of the Conservative Association occupied the chair and introduced the speakers. Preceding the speeches the annual election of officers was held when Capt. Cox was returned to the presidency, Thomas Hadfield to the vice-presidency, and J. W. Archer to the position of secretary-treasurer. The executive committee for the coming year will be composed of Miss Alice Pooley, D. W. Barker, R. Dent, Mrs. C. H. Smith, Reeve Alex Lockley, Mrs. Thomas Hadfield, Mrs. Sanders, David Henry, J. H. McDonald, Capt. S. V. Bowden, E. V. Finland and Bert Martin.

Ontario Supports Quebec in Negotiations With United States Importers

Canadian Press
Toronto, Oct. 25.—Premier Mitchell F. Hepburn of Ontario said yesterday, his Government would support Premier L. A. Taschereau of Quebec in his decision to place an embargo on newsprint destined for the United States, if a satisfactory price was not obtained.

"The United States publisher," the premier said, "are just trying to play Ontario off against Quebec. We are not going to let them."

SOUTHERN PINE

Savannah, Ga., Oct. 25.—Dr. Charles H. Herty expressed the opinion the southern states are ready to put out five times as much paper as is now annually consumed in the world at a great reduction in price and with a tenfold strength many times greater than now required by the most modern newspaper press.

Dr. Herty, who has been experimenting with Georgia pine for several years, said his research work was complete, "and simple economics are going to settle this matter eventually."

Several southern daily papers and numerous weeklies have run off special editions on newsprint from southern pine and found it satisfactory.

Dr. Herty's statement was issued in connection with the action of Premier L. A. Taschereau of Quebec and Premier Mitchell Hepburn of Ontario in declaring that as an economic necessity Canadian mills, from which much of the United States supply comes, must no longer sell at the 1934 prices of $40 and $41 a ton.

"The day is coming for southern pine newsprint at $27.54 per ton as compared with costs of $40.50 in Canadian mills," said Dr. Herty.

Perhaps—

But...

There are certain places—the ball park, the hockey game for instance; or street cars and buses where conversations become eloquent, sometimes forceful, but always semi-public.

These daily gatherings offer a vivid cross-section of the thoughts, ambitions, and ideals of an entire people; and it is only one more step to the questions, "Where are all these opinions created?" "What basic agency can be held responsible for the origination of so great a number of ideas?"

The answer lies in a great unconfined power in which the Canadian public places its faith; an institution in which ideas form an ever-changing picture yet maintain a firm grip upon the imagination, the desires, and the buying thoughts of the entire world.

ONLY ONE MEDIUM
can measure up daily to this exacting standard and yet maintain the balance and stability necessary to the sanity of the nation—THE DAILY NEWSPAPER

NEW CANADIAN LONDON WEEKLY

"Canada's Weekly" Combines Former "Canada" and "Canadian Gazette"

A worthy addition to the press of the Empire is Canada's Weekly, published in London, the first edition of which has just been received here. The new paper combines the fifty-one year old Canadian Gazette and Canada, which had been in existence for twenty-nine years.

By uniting the influence and prestige of these two great representatives of the Dominion in England, the new weekly will set a new standard among the main papers published in the hub of the Empire on behalf of its members.

The paper provides for the press of the Mother Country a free and accurate information bureau and for the general public a weekly epitome of Dominion news and opinions which is of both interest and direct use.

ROTARY HEARS SPOKES CLUB

Members Entertain Rotarians at Luncheon With Interesting Speeches

A meeting-in-miniature of the Spokes Club, a branch of the Rotary Club, entertained the general membership of the club at luncheon to-day in the Empress Hotel. Several interesting speeches on a variety of topics were heard. Duncan McBride occupied the chair in the place of J. Morse Hatt, the president, who is ill.

Dr. Vernon B. Taylor was chairman of the Spokes' meeting. The history of the club was briefly traced by Percy Watson. Each speaker was allowed three minutes.

Charles H. French spoke on "What He Would Do If He Were a Young Man." He said a young man, when ready to leave school, thought he knew all that was necessary. He should know definitely and decidedly what he wants to be. He should start from the bottom and work up. He should not think about salary. The man who kicked about salary was usually the one who was overpaid.

Arthur Brown drew as his subject, "Seaspirits." He gave an interesting and amusing talk, although he said he had never had the pleasure of seeing "one of those animals or fish, or what ever they are."

A good character sketch of Graham Towers, new governor of the Bank of Canada, was given by Sam Armstrong, who traced his career with the Royal Bank of Canada. He said he was not athletically inclined, was very approachable and known to his associates as a great good fellow.

Duncan McBride spoke on "Should Kidnappers Receive Ransom." He dealt with several phases of this question in a well-informed way. Justin A. Wardford spoke on "Illusions," and said it was not kind of anyone to dispel a man's illusions.

Alderman James Adam spoke on "What Has the Spokes Club Done for Me?" and answered his own question by replying, "A whole lot."

John Craig acted as critic on the speeches and during his remarks said only an expert can use gestures with any effect.

It was announced at the luncheon that the Rotarians would present a variety musical show at the Empress Hotel on January 7 and 8. G. H. Harman, newly appointed local manager of the Bank of Montreal, was a guest at the luncheon and was introduced by Rotarian E. W. McMullen, his predecessor.

LEADS POLICE WITH POSSIBLE

Detective Inspector J. A. McLellan Makes First High Revolver Target

For the first time on the local police revolver range a possible was turned in yesterday by Detective Inspector J. A. McLellan, participating in the Western Indoor Pistol and Revolver League match held weekly.

On his third target of the match, five shots at twenty yards, Inspector McLellan placed them all in the black. Out of a possible 200 he led the local team for the evening with 171.

The local force is competing in this league for the first time. The shoot is open to organized teams of Western United States and Western Canada, and ten weekly matches are shot and individual and team scores are based on these totals.

Inspector McLellan, who with C. L. Harrison, city prosecutor and revolver shooting instructor, are the only Victoria members of the United States Revolver Association, has shown marked improvement in his shooting performances during the last year. His work is an example to other members of the department of what results from steady practice.

The inspector also led the second stage of the competition, which is open to the best five-man team out of ten contestants. In the opening match Constable Zdenko Philippa, another promising prospect, was first.

NEW AGREEMENT BEING DEBATED

Special to The Times—Cumberland, Oct. 25.—Negotiations between the management of the Canadian Collieries Limited and its employees for a new working agreement were proceeding here to-day, the old contract with the company expired.

The chief concern of the employees appeared to be the reaching of a decision as to whether or not they should continue with the renewal of the former agreement for two years. It was generally expected that the new agreement would be taken to formulate a new contract.

Rumors to the effect that threatening action was contemplated were reported to be entirely without foundation.

Fewer Violate Traffic Signal

Victoria traffic appears to be improving. At least that is the opinion one obtains while watching for violations against the "Stop-and-Go" signal at Yates and Douglas Streets and comparing them with the number of infractions when the signal first went in.

During twelve minutes that a reporter of The Times stood at the intersection this afternoon eight persons were halted as they were proceeding across the intersection against the sign. And their embarrassment was quite evident as they reached the middle of the street and heard Constable Roy Woolley's whistle "tweeting" at them.

Some acquiesced and returned to the curb, while others who had seemed to this time since they had reached the halfway mark they might as well go the rest of the way.

Shortly after the signal was resumed and the number of violations was taken for the same length of time at the same hour and about one person a minute walked against the signal.

Pay Last Tribute To K. M. Chadwick

Many beautiful floral tributes and a large congregation, marked the funeral of Kenneth Murray Chadwick, held yesterday afternoon in St. Mary's Church, Oak Bay, Canon A. E. L. Munro conducting the service. The choir was in attendance and the hymns sung were "Unto the Hills," "Breathe on Me, Breath of God," and "The Lord's Prayer."

The following acted as pallbearers: Honorary C. L. Harrison, W. H. Dougan and G. A. Cameron, representing the Alpha Club; and F. C. Green, H. L. Swan and H. F. Bourne, representing the Civil Engineers' Institute of Canada; active pallbearers, W. E. Barr, Colonel C. Phillips, W. Barrowclough, R. B. Price, M. Williams and H. N. Wright.

The remains were laid at rest in Royal Oak Burial Park.

year when it declined to affiliate with the Co-operative Commonwealth Federation as had similar organizations in Alberta and Saskatchewan. A separate Manitoba farm wing of the C.C.F. has since been formed.

To-day the convention was debating debt adjustment legislation, farm mortgages and resolutions, with a concluding address by Premier John Bracken of Manitoba on the drought situation in the southwestern section of the province.

ORGANIST IN FINE RECITAL

Gunter Ramin Thrills 600 at First United; Jacqueline Rosal Assisting Artist

By G.J.D.

Organ recitals have never been ready-made musical ventures. They have been what church committees and the organist make of them. The main question still is their appeal to the public, and it is known that there are many who love their cathedral and church organs.

In the recent installation of the fine organ at the First United Church, educative and courageous enterprise is seen in the auspicious beginning in the visit yesterday evening of the organist of St. Thomas Church, Leipzig, Gunter Ramin. More than 600 musical people gathered to hear him at the console of the new organ.

It is hoped the recital is the forerunner of others to take growth as in the past days of Bonnet, Dupre, Courbain, Hollins and others who played at the Metropolitan when that church became a centre of organ recital performances.

FRONT RANK VIRTUOSO
 Mr. Ramin ranks among the front-rank organ virtuosos of the day, and, like the others who preceded him, has left a remarkably favorable impression. He has the essential of the organ artist, not always obtained by players of this noble instrument. These are multitudinous: changes of registration, stop changes, or of manual tone-colors, touch, weight, or thickness of tone, even couplers, swell-pedalling, all meaning so much in the general treatment of the organ composition.

All these Gunter Ramin exemplifies, and verified with a rare sense of the meaning of the score, that there seemingly was no room for regretting any absence of suavity or grandeur in his interpretations. The listener felt the touch of the master hand.

He opened with a Bach group, including the dashing, dazzling "Toccata in D Minor," two exquisite organ chorales, "My Heart Lies Heavy Within Me" and "In Dulci Jubilo," played throughout in a simple, unadorned, as Bach intended them to be, pleasingly grateful to the ear; and the ever popular "Pascaglia in C Minor" with its workable theme and contrasting variations, which brought forth rounds of applause.

BACH'S FAMOUS PILGRIMAGE (1687-1707), is one of this famous organist's best style of compositions, exploiting all the possibilities of the organ. The flute, oboe and clarinet stops were most efficient. This was loudly acclaimed.

It was this noted organist to whom young Bach (at the age of twenty) made his famous pilgrimage on foot to Uebach, 300 miles away, to hear him. Such was Bach's admiration for Buxtehude that he oversteered his leave from his consistory at Arnstadt.

Mag Reger, also a famous organist and prolific composer, was represented in his amazing technical work, the famous "Fantasy" on the name "B-a-c-h," Opus 40, in which Ramin rose to great altitudes of artistry, the full organ at times crashing in climax with astonishing force and vigor. The theme of the fugue was one of the outstanding bits of playing of the evening. Here again and in his own "Improvisation," the audience gave unburdened signs of their enjoyment and appreciation, the organist being brought again to the platform.

The "Improvisation" in a capriccio style was delightful and interesting, showing the organist as composer as well as virtuoso. He spun his texture coherently with finely wrought modulations, and climax, as if his uppermost desire was to make manifest the beauties and resources of the instrument. He was an awe-inspiring achievement.

JACQUELINE ROSAL
 The recitalist was assisted by Jacqueline Rosal of the city, and one of the leading vocalists in western music circles. Mme. Rosal, selected a group of four numbers, two, sung in German, by Gustav Mahler (Brahmanian composer), "Ich Bin Der Welt Abhanden Gekommen" (I am lost to the world), where the tender meanings of the phrases had light and freshness, the second number receiving a particularly timid, yet vital rendering. The remaining two numbers, in French, were Debussy's "Requiem" (Meditation), singularly expressive, and the famous "L'Air" from "The Prodigal Son," in which Mme. Rosal sang with impassioned feeling and—dramatic effect, her evenness of voice control, clear diction and interpretive skill, bringing tributes from her listeners.

Both she and her excellent accompanist, Irene Dumberton, being obliged to again return to the platform in response to the enthusiastic applause.

LAST RITES FOR VETERAN

Consider Staging Box Lacrosse Exhibition Here in December

THE SPORTS

MR. LEFTY O'DOUL, who hits baseballs better and yon for Mr. Bill Terry when the latter's New York Giants are really in mid-season stride, was pacing the decks of the Canadian Pacific liner Empress of Japan, at the Outer Docks last Saturday afternoon, with Mr. Morris Berg, who catches baseballs for the Cleveland Indians, and Mr. Sotaro Suzuki, of the Tokyo Baseball Club, who is very interested in baseball.

These sportive gentlemen were in earnest conversation about the reception Mr. Babe Ruth's all-stars would receive in Japan, where they are bound for a big exhibition series. There was no doubt, said Mr. O'Doul, that the American Leaguers would get the surprise of their life. "The Japanese, he declared, play very much baseball; in fact, everyone in Japan either plays or follows the game. "They have more teams than we have in the States," said the lanky slugger, who has spent the last three winters teaching the game to schoolboys in Tokyo, Yokohama and Osaka. "They'll turn out by the thousands. To all of this Mr. Suzuki nodded quick assent, meanwhile flashing a series of very toothy smiles, and lapped into conversation—in Japanese—with the linguist Mr. Berg, of Princeton and Columbia who, by his own confession, is master of seven languages, including—it is rumored—English. Details of the Japanese tour disposed of, conversationally speaking, Mr. O'Doul and Mr. Berg fell into small talk about the recent world series and the statement that Babe Ruth was "through."

"When the Babe goes," said Lefty, "something will be done from baseball that can never be repeated. "Precisely," muttered Mr. Berg, "the Babe is to baseball what ham is to eggs, what con is to pro—what ginger ale is to ry—no that I would know about that last one!"

"What are those babies here for?" continued Mr. Lefty O'Doul, rhetorically, and pointing to a group of reporters and cameramen standing by the ship's rail in earnest conversation with Mr. George Herman Ruth. "Are they here to talk to Jimmy Fox, Lou Gehrig, Bing Miller or even Lefty Gomez and Charlie Gehringer? No, they are here to talk to the Babe. Fox and Gehrig hit more home runs last season than the Babe, but do the boys come to them for their autographs? No, they gather around the Babe like bees around the old lady. But all the rest of us could go and jump over the moon and they wouldn't even run to see the splash."

"You are not sore about that, I hope, Lefty," chimed Mr. Morris Berg. "Sore?" echoed Mr. O'Doul. "Sore? Gosh, no. It's just evidence that the Babe is still the Babe, always was the Babe and always will be the Babe."

"The Ruth, the Babe Ruth and nothing but the Ruth," murmured Mr. Berg reflectively, of the depths of his checked muffler.

"You said something, Moe," ejaculated the Man in the Green Suit as Mr. O'Doul is sometimes known in his own New York.

"It was time for Mr. Suzuki to ask a few questions."

"But these young brothers—those Dean brothers, who throw the baseball with such force and precision," he asked, "will they not to some extent compensate if Mr. Ruth retires?"

"Maybe—to some extent," Mr. O'Doul cracked back, but remember the Deans are only in there a couple of times a week—they're pitchers, remember, whereas the old Babe is in there every day giving everything he has."

"That makes some difference at the box office," Mr. Berg agreed. "It's the way he does it—not what he does that makes the Babe the Babe," continued Mr. O'Doul. "Others hit baseballs just as far as the Babe—now, I mean, but they don't hold their mouth right, or something. The Babe could strike out with the eyes full and still be a hero with every small boy and fan in the country. Look at him over there. Look at his face. They can't put a face like that on anyone who hits a baseball over the right field wall! Look at him smile! Hear that laugh! No, there's only one Babe and his second name is Herman!"

All of which proves that Babe Ruth is not only the public's hero but the ballplayers' idol as well.

Bill Brady, manager of Jim Jeffries and Jim Corbett during their reigns as champion, witnessed the recent Art Lasky-Steve Hanna fight, and now hobs up with the information that: "Not once during the ten rounds was the third man in the ring called on to separate the contestants. Whenever either of the two was strong, instead of going into a clinch, he fought his opponent off. That is the reason why, for me, it was the best fight since the Jeffries-Sharkey contest."

Virginia Van Wile is the fourth to win the United States women's golf crown three years in a row. The others were Beatrice Hoyt, Alexa Strickland Fraser, and Glenna Collett Vare.

Col. E. R. Bradley has sold five horses to H. C. Hatch, Canadian sportsman. Three of them being the likely Seestack, Beaming Over, and Bitter Bark. Jockey Oliver Eiston is recovering from injuries suffered in an automobile accident and will be seen in action again at Churchill Downs. Hialeah Park opens January 17 and will run for forty-five days. The Florida Derby, worth $18,000, tops the purse.

Kiwanis Club Is Making Plans For Big Charity Tilt

New Westminster Salmonbellies and St. Helens Mentioned as Opponents

Track Meet Plans Are Going Ahead

Informed circles to-day saw prospects of an exhibition boxla game here between leading mainland teams, as well as a big indoor track meet, as two features of early December's sports programme. Possibility of staging the events was being weighed by the Kiwanis special sports committee, which will again sponsor athletic contests to raise funds for charity. Providing two of the lower mainland teams could be secured at an expense cost alone, the chances of them playing box lacrosse here look bright.

In view of the interest created in the revised lacrosse game throughout Canada and the fact that two of the finest teams in the country, New Westminster Salmonbellies and Vancouver St. Helens, available from the lower mainland, the question of public support for the exhibition did not seem grave. Although no overtures have been made to date, it was felt the players might be brought over at a minimum cost to the club to assist in the charity drive.

Two venues here Subject to the ratification of the various authorities, two venues would be available, the Armories and the Horse Show Building. Experts on the question of a suitable court at the Horse Show Building would not be a problem of very great expense or difficulty. The suggestion was brought up this week by "Rich" Williams, newly appointed chairman of the Kiwanis sports committee, and was received with some interest by the club. Archie McKinnon, Y.M.C.A. coach, who has cared for the club's indoor track meets, believed the track meets and the game could not be run very well the same night, but expressed his willingness to co-operate with the clubmen in staging the track meet either at an earlier or later date.

DECEMBER 7 SUGGESTED DATE

Without going deeply into the matter, Mr. Williams expressed the view of the two events might be staged to advantage around December 7. Regarding the track meet, which he believed should be held at the Armories, if permission were granted by the military authorities, Mr. Williams stated the club would improve the running facilities by banking at least two of the turns in the track.

From Mr. McKinnon came the suggestion that the track meet this year include highland dancing features in place of the wrestling and boxing events carried on previous indoor track programmes. He believed the co-operation of the schools could be secured, and the event made to carry the color of a highland gathering.

Popular Manager of Hollywood Baseball Club Asked to Resign

Los Angeles, Oct. 25.—Oscar Vitt, popular manager of the Hollywood baseball club since 1925, was dropped as boss of the Shells yesterday and Frank Shellenback, veteran spitball pitcher, named to succeed him. Shells will be a playing manager, taking his regular turn on the mound.

Circumstances leading up to the startling parting of the ways between Bill Lane and his manager developed with suddenness late yesterday afternoon. "Spider" Baum, secretary of the Hollywood club, phoned to say Vitt had resigned. Baum indicated Vitt willingly quit and the former skipper had in mind managerial ambitions with either Oakland, Portland or Sacramento, which clubs are supposed to be in the market for new leaders during 1935.

Later, over the phone from his home in Oakland, Calif., Vitt related the details. He said: "Resigned nothing! I was invited to quit. Last Monday I received a letter from Bill Lane, owner, who insisted I resign. He stated the Hollywood club had lost large amounts of money during the last few years and that in giving me an outright release, he was doing so with the idea in mind that I could look for another job between now and the various minor league meetings here and in Louisville, Ky."

In an effort to increase interest among juveniles, George Wilkinson, C. Jones and F. Jordan were elected to a special committee to interview school principals with a view to securing teams for a young players' league.

The financial statement showed the association's funds to be in good shape.

In a report on activities during the year, prominence was given to the visit of the touring eastern Canadian eleven, which played at Macdonald Park, and to the inter-city games, which drew considerable interest.

The association again decided to use Macdonald Park, one of the best pitches in Canada, for inter-city games next year.

Mickey Ion Gets Referee's Post

Cleveland, Oct. 25.—Opening up of play in games of the International Hockey League this winter was sought by officials of the circuit yesterday, when it was decided in a meeting here to eliminate the awarding of points for tie contests.

In the future, two points will be given for victories and none for ties. C. Charles King of Windsor, president of the league, said he believed the arrangement would "speed up the games."

Four referees were chosen for the season. They are: Moose Jamieson, Cleveland; Mickey Ion, Brantford, Ont.; Guy Smith, Hamilton, Ont., and Stanley Jacobson, Fort Erie.

Major Ball Stars Win Over Calgary

Calgary, Oct. 26.—The remnants of Earl Mack's team of American Baseball League All-Stars defeated a Calgary team, 9 to 5 here yesterday. Seneca Indian, Jameson, R. X., in the second round of their feature five-round bout of the local Oriole Club card here yesterday evening.

Outbreak Between Frank Elliott and Buddy Michell Yesterday Evening Raises Ire of League Executive; Colonist Beats Lake Hill to Take League Lead

President Jack Taylor of the Victoria and District Basketball League, announced this morning that as a result of yesterday evening's fracas between Frank Elliott and Buddy Michell, during a game at the Victoria High School gymnasium, all players in the circuit will get a warning that the executive will not tolerate showings of ill feeling on the floor, and that in future players sent off the court will draw stiff suspensions. Elliott and Michell will get off with reprimands. This statement was issued following an executive meeting held yesterday evening after the games.

In one of the hardest fought basketball games of the current season the Colonist senior B men's quintette defeated the Lake Hill five 26 to 21 yesterday evening at the High School gymnasium. Till via Japan by their victory went into first place in their division, a half game ahead of the Beavers. Until yesterday evening's game the Colonist, Lake Hill and Beavers were tied each undefeated and each with one victory. In the other games the Doo Dads, favorites for the senior C crown, defeated the Hudson's Bay 30 to 24 in a close, fast-passing game, while Kingham and Gillespie played their usual smooth game to down the Fernwood Merchants 33 to 22.

The Colonist-Lake Hill battle was a scorcher from the start, with the Colonist leading 10-0 in the first half. By half-time the score board read 19 to 9 in favor of the Colonist. In the initial twenty minutes of play Buddy Michell and Frank Elliott objected to each other's method of play, and their objections were so forceful that Referee Macedo was forced to send the two players to the showers to cool off.

FOUR SHOOTING

This incident seemed to affect the Colonist boys more than the suburbs, for in the second half, without the services of their star guard, the newbies seemed disorganized for a short time. Lake Hill's "weakness" was in their shooting, many times crippling shots being missed when points were needed most. The suburbs used a long passing game, which for a time was very effective, but the Colonist hoopers managed to hold a portion of their early lead until the final whistle.

Gaining an eight-point lead in the first half the Doo Dads were never headed in their fixture against the Bays, but they did meet considerable more opposition than they looked for. The Bays played a much-improved game, and by their next appearance should give their opponents plenty to think about.

Clicking like a well-oiled machine in the second half, Kingham and Gillespie defeated the Fernwood Merchants 33 to 22. The Colonist-Lake Hill battle was a scorcher from the start, with the Colonist leading 10-0 in the first half. By half-time the score board read 19 to 9 in favor of the Colonist. In the initial twenty minutes of play Buddy Michell and Frank Elliott objected to each other's method of play, and their objections were so forceful that Referee Macedo was forced to send the two players to the showers to cool off.

Tommy Macedo refereed all games.

Aussies May Not Seek Davis Cup

Melbourne, Oct. 25.—Australia may not send a team to compete in Davis Cup contests next year, although it is expected that the Australian Tennis Association will make a decision on the matter soon. Norman Brooks, president of the Lawn Tennis Association of Australia, has advised that organization that the Aussies should be sent to Japan next year even though such action might mean non-participation in Davis Cup eliminations. He stated it was a matter of opinion as to whether or not the Aussies should be sent to Japan as that country had been extremely good to Australia.

If the proposed eastern tour could be arranged, it would be a great asset to the Aussies, and it might be possible to accomplish both, he said.

Hoop Fixture Won By Hudson's Bay

In a Spanish and Suburb Basketball fixture yesterday evening the Hudson's Bay women eagles, defeated the home quintette, 29 to 10, in their first victory of the season, at the West Road gymnasium.

Victoria West Will Hold Get-together

To-morrow evening at the Sons of Canada Hall the players of the Victoria West first and second division and juvenile football teams will hold a get-together. An interesting programme is being arranged and all players are invited to attend. The affair will commence at 8 o'clock.

To Hold Swimming Gala on Saturday

The annual swimming gala of the bromides of Victoria and district will be held on Saturday under auspices of the local Girl Guides' Association at the Crystal Garden at 1.30 o'clock. The silver challenge cup will again be competed for. The prizes will be presented by Mrs. Alan Morrell, provincial commissioner.

Madison Square Is Busy Talking Fight

Gotham Promoters Favor Staging Another Big Winter Show at Miami; Ross-Canzoneri Lightweight Battle May Be Held There; Lay Down Law to Steve Hamas

New York, Oct. 25.—Once more Madison Square Garden is toying with the idea of a big outdoor fight in Florida in February, when the north is snowbound, and people with the time and money to play, head for the southland.

The winter custom Tex Rickard inaugurated in 1929 with a $400,000 match he never lived to see, between the late Bill Stribling and Jack Sharkey at Miami Beach, did not turn out at all well last February. Primo Carnera and Tommy Loughran drew barely one-tenth of that for a heavyweight championship match in Miami.

But just the same, Barney Ross and Tony Canzoneri, from whom he won his lightweight title, may try to swing the ride back into the prosperity channel with their third match, or Max Schmeling may bid for another title chance by tackling Art Lasky, the lanky Jewish boy from Minneapolis, in the climax of the winter eliminations.

Both propositions are still wide open and filled with ifs and buts.

JOHNSON SPEAKS

"They tell me down there this will be the most prosperous winter in Florida since the depression hit us," says Jimmy Johnson, the Garden's boxing boss. "We've got an arena lying idle in Miami, renovated last winter. There's a very good chance that we'll put on another show there this February."

It was ultimately day at Madison Square Garden yesterday, and before another week is out, Steve Hamas will either be in or out of the heavyweight championship picture, and the winter programme will be completely organized.

The Garden yesterday gave ancient Charlie Harvey, the former Penn State football star, until Friday of next week either to recapture his warrior for the indoor elimination war, or take him definitely to the sidelines, to watch while another contender is developed for a heavyweight title fight with Max Baer here in June.

SET PROGRAMME

The programme firmly set down by the Garden is as follows: Hamas must fight Art Lasky, the Jewish heavyweight, over the fifteen-round route in the Garden in December, testing out of consideration the controversial ten-round decision Steve gained a few weeks ago.

The winner must fight Max Schmeling in January or February. About the same time, Primo Carnera will be back from the South American tour and can have his comeback chance against Ray Impey, another Gollath, in the Garden, and, if the showing of the winner suffices, he will meet the winner of the other half of the draw in a final elimination match.

There's $500,000 worth of activity there," said Col. John R. Kilpatrick, Garden president, as he laid down the law yesterday to the Hamas forces, who insist that Steve, on the basis of decision over both Schmeling and Lasky, already has qualified for the Baer chance.

SQUASH COURT HERE SQUASHED

Much Too Big for Purpose, Expert States After Viewing Old Gymnasium

Last week two of Victoria's squash enthusiasts believed they had found an old court, for their favored game.

This week prospects of reviving the game here appeared likely to be washed away with the water that was seeping through the roof on to the alleged court's floor.

An expert viewed the reported "find." To reach it he had to go through the Veterans of France quarters. What he saw discouraged him. The alleged court was an old gymnasium, about three times as long and twice as wide as a squash court, with one corner of the floor badly sunken. He stopped to wonder what had given the discoverers their glowing impression of the disused quarters.

Both propositions are still wide open and filled with ifs and buts.

MAY ATTEMPT TO REVIVE BOXING INDUSTRY IN FLORIDA

BARNEY ROSS

Who have been mentioned as the two most likely fighters to attempt to swing matters back into the prosperity channel for Madison Square Garden in Florida. The occasion would be a bout for Ross's world lightweight championship. It would be the third meeting between the pair. After winning the title from Canzoneri, Ross agreed to a return match in New York and whipped one of the greatest machines in the history of the ring, for the second time. A few weeks ago Ross was beaten by Jimmy McLarnin over fifteen rounds and lost the welterweight crown he had wrested away from the Vancouver puncher last May.

Lacrosse Series Is Still Drawing Fire

Dan McKenzie, Canadian President, Turns Down Offer of Sponsors of Orillia-St. Helens Games, to Give Proceeds of Fifth Clash to C.A.L.A.

Vancouver, Oct. 25.—An offer of the Vancouver service club sponsoring the post-season exhibition lacrosse series between Orillia and St. Helens, to turn over the proceeds of the fifth game to the Canadian Amateur Lacrosse Association was rejected by Dan McKenzie, C.A.L.A. president, F. D. Pratt, service club president, stated yesterday.

Pratt stated that, early last spring, McKenzie and Jim McConachy, secretary of the C.A.L.A., assured him of their co-operation if the service clubs decided to sponsor an exhibition series this fall, the proceeds to go to charity.

"At a second meeting, I proposed that the series be played under the supervision and control of the C.A.L.A. and that subject to the consent of the Orillia Lacrosse Club, a sixth game be played in New Westminster with the Salmonbellies, the proceeds to go to the C.A.L.A. to be handled as that body saw fit," Pratt declared.

ORILLIA PROTESTED

Orillia club expressed their unwillingness to play at New Westminster, and complained of the treatment they claimed they had received from the president of C.A.L.A. in not allowing them to play the Mann Cup series in their home town, Pratt said.

Mckenzie then advised me that he was giving the press a statement that all players and officials taking part in the second game would be banned by the C.A.L.A., he continued. "At that time I again endeavored to reason with him, pointing out the cause for which we were working, and finally I went so far as to offer him the fifth game of our series here, we were giving all our rights therein. This he refused and insisted that the game would have to be played in New Westminster."

Americans Will Not Sign B.C. Amateurs

Snowden and Cronie, Trail, Show Up Well in Training With New York Pro Hockey Club, But Need More Seasoning; Toronto Leafs Look Good

Ottawa, Ont., Oct. 25.—Three amateurs working out with New York Americans have impressed "Bullet" Joe Simpson, manager, but he announced today they would not be signed to play professional hockey this winter.

The three slamon-pure are "Nakine" Smith, Ottawa, and Snowden and Cronie, Trail, B.C. "Another year in senior hockey should do all the boys a world of good," Simpson stated, "and we will keep strings on them."

Simpson said he had practically decided on a defence of Alex Smith, last year with Boston Bruins; Al Murray, "Red" Dutton and Bill Brydges, Dave "Sweeney" Schriener, who performed with Syracuse last year, will be given a chance in the major league.

A number of the veterans are sure of positions but from eight to ten of the squad will be farmed out.

Galt, Ont., Oct. 25.—Manager Conny Smythe and Coach Dick Irvin yesterday declared themselves well pleased with the training results shown by the Toronto Maple Leafs of the National Hockey League.

"Busher" Jackson and "Red" Horner have been the standouts so far, but the officials say the rest of the squad are doing great work.

Twenty of the twenty-three players training here will be signed, and from this twenty will be selected fourteen as the regular club. The selections will be made after a series of exhibition games next week. Smythe said that practically all the regulars have signed contracts and he expected to have the remainder of the team signed by the week-end.

Ottawa, Oct. 25.—First move in the final departure of major league hockey from Ottawa came yesterday when eight players of St. Louis Eagles departed for the city which they will represent in the approaching National Hockey League campaign. Remainder of the season has done pre-season training here for the past two weeks will leave to-night.

Glen Brydson, Vernon Ayres, Scotty Bowman, Jerry Shannon, Jeff Kalberleish, Max Kaminsky, Carl Voss and Burr Williams were those who left yesterday.

To-night Coach Eddie Gerard will leave with Bill Beveridge, Irvine Frew, Mickey Blake, Bill Cowley, Earl and Deese Roche, Frank Finnigan, Syd Howe and Bud Cook.

Quebec, Oct. 25.—Only bare benches of the arena here will watch Boston Bruins in practice for the rest of the week. General-manager Art Ross and Manager Frank Patrick stated yesterday they wanted their men to work on new formations and didn't want "anybody to disturb the players."

Mechanical precision is the aim of Patrick, who has the squad reeling off all kinds of passes. He is coaching the National Hockey League aspirants and veterans in new and different ways of puzzling a goal-tender.

"Tiny" Thompson, as a result, is being overworked, blocking rubber from all angles, but takes it with his usual grin.

Financial Aid For College Athletes

Stanford University, Cal., Oct. 25.—The student editor of The Stanford Daily advocated yesterday that Pacific Coast college athletes, especially football players, be given open and above-board financial support.

The suggestion was received with a shrug of the shoulders by Prof. William Owen, president of the coast conference. "It's an old, old story," he said.

Athletes in every Pacific Coast institution are receiving "some sort of financial support, from one source or another," wrote Stanley Beaubaire in the student publication. He urged an early meeting of the conference to lay the plans for "an inoffensive manner of taking care of varsity athletes."

LIFE EVER FLOWING
 It is not wise to wish that life might be as changeless as a picture on a wall. For life is ever moving, flowing free. Each instant swiftly gone beyond recall. Whether in sunny season or in storm. Whatever is must fleetly pass away. And this its marvel and its endless charm. That no to-morrow will be like to-day!
 How, then, can we through this riddle go? Without one clue to tell of future days. Dream we would find content if we could know. There would be naught of change on all our ways? This hour is perfect! Then rejoice and pass as if its coming; far away. Another hour will bring new perfections. And no to-morrow will be like to-day!

BELASCO'S MEMORY IS KEPT GREEN
 New York, Oct. 25.—It has been two and a half years since the great David Belasco died, but not a speck of dust has fallen on the treasures of his museum-like sanctum in the upper part of the theatre, nor has any other producer occupying the theatre presumed to work in those dim and lofty rooms.

Everything, even to the papers and pencils on Belasco's little work table, remain as when the master dramatist left them—guarded carefully by an old colored porter who was long a fixture of the establishment. Every day he goes up in the tiny private elevator, tipsies around, dusting, locks the door and leaves. Nobody has asked him to do this, nor is he paid for it. It is just a sentimental little service to the memories that still permeate the place.

HITLERITE HELMETS ARE LATEST FAD
 New York, Oct. 25.—There is a fad, these days, for bringing back Storm Troopers' helmets as European souvenirs. Helen Morgan, Broadway will be sorry to learn, is going back to the movies. . . And Jimmy Durante, many will be sorry to learn, soon will be hot-chasing all over a New York night club.

The three highest collars in the nation are worn by Col. E. R. Bradley, grandest oldster of the race tracks. Will Hays, high priest of Hollywood, and Daniel Frohman, patriarch of the rialto.

HOCKEY GOSSIP

Believing hockey players practice better without crowds of onlookers, Frank Patrick has barred the doors of the Quebec rink where his Boston Bruins are training. The former Vancouver manager has ideas of new formations and mechanical precision in passing and believes he can inculcate them best in comparative seclusion.

Nels Stewart, Johnny Gagnon and Red Beattie probably will make up Patrick's first string line this season. He has them practicing together and also uses Marty Barry, Dit Clapper and Babe Selbert as a trio.

Eddie Shore has not yet appeared at the Quebec camp, but there is no suggestion of contract difficulties, and he is expected to-day. The Bruin star is reported to have signed already.

Ottawa's St. Louis Eagles are on their way to their new home in Missouri to-day without many of the amateurs they had training with them. Of the slamon-pure they signed only Bill Cowley. They also left behind Bill Touhey and Nick Wande, both pros with long service records in the N.H.L. They hope to catch on with other big league teams.

Pit Laine gave notice in a practice game at San John yesterday evening that he is ready to take over Howie Moren's job at Montreal Canadiens' first-string centre. He returned in four goals when the regulars beat the Yanks 10 to 6 and won $200 from them at the same time.

Working with Aurel Joliat and Wildor Larochelle, the Frenchmen's new star line, Laine was in great early season form. Joliat also was sniping well and got two tallies, the same number as Nels Crutcheid Habitate's recruit from McGill.

Canadiens saw one of their old teammates settled with the announcement: "Albert 'Battleship' Leduc has come to terms with Quebec Beavers, Canadiens' farm, to act as player-manager. He had held out for more salary and Leo Bourgeault was angling for the job.

N.H.L. officials will be keeping a close eye on International League scores this season to see whether a new rule passed at a Cleveland meeting yesterday eliminates tie games.

Following the American Association's move of last season, International directors decided no points will be awarded for ties. They expect this will eliminate stalling for ties in the latter stages of the games

Dorothy Dix's Letter Box

DEAR MISS DIX—I have the best husband in the world and five daughters of whom I am naturally proud, but we are in very moderate circumstances and I have been ill for over a year with a nervous breakdown. Here is my problem.

My oldest girl, who is sixteen, graduates from high school this term. What about a college education? Of course we want to do the best we can for our children, but shall we struggle along, denying ourselves everything we possibly can and sacrificing the comforts of the whole family, in order to send our girls to college? MRS. B.

Answer: I think that whether a girl should be sent to college depends entirely upon her personality, her character, and most of all upon the sort of brain she has and what her ambitions are.

Not all girls are college material. Plenty of them are bright and clever and liberally endowed with good, hard horse sense, but they haven't book sense. They never read anything but goosy romances. They have no interest in intellectual subjects. They have never made high grades at school. They have no intention whatever of following any learned career, and it is a waste of time and money to send them to college.

Also, it is a waste of time and money to send to college the pretty, peace-and-cream, fluffy-ruffles type of girl who has more "it" than gray matter, and who was predestined by Nature for marriage. College is a hindrance and not a help to her, because it diminishes her chances of marriage by keeping her out of the running during the years when her good looks are at their peak, and when she is most attractive to men, and because the majority of men still fight shy of the feminine highbrow.

Nor are these drawbacks compensated for by what the girl learns in college, for only in rare cases does a college education "take" on her. She could paraphrase the words of the poet and say, "My only book is my boy's looks," and she was born knowing more about men than all her spinster professors rolled together ever dreamed of.

But, on the other hand, if a girl is markedly intellectual, and particularly if she craves an education, she should be sent to college if possible. Also, it is a good thing to give a girl a college education if she is homesick and unattractive to men, and if it seems reasonably certain that she will have to make her own way in the world.

I do not think that there is anything more pathetic than the superstitious reverence the great majority of people have for a college education. It is our great national fetish, and before it every year thousands upon thousands of poor parents offer up their lives. They have a blind and misguided belief that if they can only send their girls and boys off to college they will secure to them fame and fortune. They actually believe that a college degree is some sort of magic that will unlock every door of opportunity to its unfortunate possessor and enable them to stroll through to prosperity.

So we have the pitiable spectacle of poor old fathers and mothers working themselves to death, scrimping and saving and pinching, wearing their old clothes until they are threadbare, spreading the butter thinner on their bread, doing without the medical care they need and the vacation that would prolong their lives, making every possible sacrifice to send boys and girls to college who are just having grand old times and a four years' loaf, and who will come home with nothing but a college yell and maybe a sweater with a letter on it and a swollen head, and the feeling that they are far superior to their parents and their surroundings.

So, Mrs. B., my advice to you is to try to see your daughter as she is. If she is a bookworm or wants to be a teacher, lawyer, or doctor, send her to college. But if she is just an ordinary, sweet, nice girl, have her taught some way of making a living until she marries, and spend your money on yourself. DOROTHY DIX.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX—I was in my late twenties when I married a woman who is one of the most admirable characters that has ever lived. It was because I admired her character so much that I married her, but I soon found out that admiration was not the love that satisfies the heart, for there continued a longing for something I did not have. Three years ago THE WOMAN crossed my path and almost immediately we knew that we had found our predestined mates. She is married to a good man and she has two children. I also have two children. We have fought against this love, but without avail. We both detest philandering and want to be honorable and do the right thing. I have a good job and have saved a fair estate, but with this unhappy love continually on my mind I feel my ability waning, and if it keeps up I will lose my mind. What shall we do? L. E. W. H.

Answer: I can see no solution to your problem but an appeal to the generosity and sympathy of your wife and the woman's husband. For you two are no silly loveless boy and girl, but a mature man and woman who know your own minds. Nor are you philanderers who get a thrill out of illicit love affairs. You are strong and upright characters caught up in the grip of a great passion.

You will not change. You will not get over your feeling for each other. Your love is elemental, the kind that endures. That is a fact that your respective mates must recognize, and realize that if they force you to go on living with them it will be a desecration of everything that marriage really means, and there will be no happiness in it for any one.

So my advice is for you four people who are involved in this tragedy to get together. Lay all your cards on the table and try to reason it out like sane human beings, recognizing that some power that you could not control and that is stronger than you have driven you into this impasse, out of which you cannot come without suffering and without hurting those who are innocent.

But what a strange thing love is that we can neither make nor control, that knows no law save its own! How strange that we cannot love those whom it is our duty to love! How strange that we do not love people for their beauty, their worth, their goodness, nor even for their love of us, but that we set our hearts so often on one who has no particular claim to our admiration, but whom somehow we love just because we do. DOROTHY DIX.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX—Why is it that you inject the you-made-your-bed-and-you-must-lie-on-it attitude into so much of your advice? JOE.

Answer: Because it is one of the great eternal truths that I am forever trying to impress upon the young, I am trying the best I know how to make them see that the one thing from which we can never escape is the consequence of our own acts.

So many think that some miracle will happen that will enable them to avoid paying for their follies. So many brood themselves into believing that they will never have to reap the wild oats crop that they have sown. So many think that they can wash off the score of their sins and nobody will remember them.

It never happens. As we make our bed so we must lie on it. The young men who have wasted their youth in riotous living must lie on the hard bed of poverty and sickness in their old age. The girl who has thrown her cap over the windmill must tow on a bed on which she cannot sleep, when she wakes with fear of the man she loves learning of her past. The murderer, the thief, the philanderer, the crook make their lives what they are, just as the upright, honest man makes his, and one lies hard and one lies soft on the bed he has made.

HOROSCOPE

"The stars incline, but do not compel"

FRIDAY, OCTOBER 26, 1934

Adverse planetary aspects are seen for the busiest hours of today, according to astrologers. The stars seem to warn men and women to put their affairs in order before beginning new ventures.

Wagons is in a place supposed to pre-empt interest in naval affairs and opposition to expansion policies that will be proved wise through unexpected events.

Under this away there may be deception in human relations. This applies equally to private affairs and to business. Mental vagaries now will be revealed in the thinking of men and women who should concentrate attention upon personal problems instead of national issues beyond their reach. Warning is given against the danger of mass hysteria in spreading propaganda.

Trouble over relief programmes is indicated by the stars. The coming winter will offer new problems to municipalities. Secret plots affecting government organizations are prognosticated.

Farmers are to profits at this time, when they will experience extremes of depression and encouragement. Poor harvests will affect prices in the early winter.

Mining interests are subject to a rule of the stars promising extraordinary activity next spring, when Washington will be interested in developing mineral resources.

Persons whose birthdate it is to have the August of a year of ups and downs in business, but success may be achieved in the end.

Children born on this day probably will be exceedingly gifted and temperamental. Bohemians of this sign may have unusual musical gifts.

Adelaide Phillips, actress and prima donna, was born on this day 1833.
